THREE CHILDREN DIE

The wreckage of a school bus in which three children died and 40 others were injured when rammed today by a freight train rests in a sea of foam after having been dragged more than a quarter-mile down the tracks at Congers, N.Y. The bus was carrying students to school at about 8 a.m. when struck by the Penn Central train. It was believed the bus was moving across the tracks when struck.

Another Probe Of ITT

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted today to look into corporate involvement in U.S. foreign policy, including allegations of ITT interference in the internal affairs of Chile.

The committee unanimously adopted a motion by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to undertake the study and —if necessary— subpena documents and witnesses. It directed Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., to "obtain forthwith all ITT documents concerning Chile between Sept. 1 and Nov. 1, 1970."

The decision means that two separate Senate inquiries will be made into the conduct of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. The Senate Judiciary Committee is looking into the political circumstances surrounding a huge ITT antitrust settlement last year as it considers the qualifications of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general.

The Foreign Relations Committee's action resulted from publication this week by Columnist Jack Anderson of what he described as confidential ITT documents concerning the company's alleged efforts to prevent Marxist Salvador Allende from becoming president of Chile.

Fulbright said the study could take a year to complete. He said public hearings would be held and ITT witnesses would be asked to testify, as well as those from other corporations with broad operations abroad.

The State Department said Chile's ambassador, Orlando Letelier, had expressed concern over the material published by Anderson.

A spokesman, Charles W. Bray, said Letelier was given a copy of a department statement Wednesday denying that the United States had discussed with ITT or anybody else the possibility of economic or other action to prevent Allende from assuming power after his 1970 election.

In connection with the Judiciary committee inquiry, the New York Times said an official communication in early 1971 by the Justice Department's former antitrust chief at the time recommended that the government take its case against ITT to the Supreme Court on a "win or lose" basis four months before he agreed to the out-of-court settlement.

The New York Times said it had obtained a copy of a memorandum by Richard W. McLaren, then an assistant attorney general and now a federal judge in Chicago.

The memo was submitted to the Senate Judiciary Committee in its investigation of the ITT settlement and the corporation's offer of financial help to the Republican national convention.

Senate sources who have seen the memo said McLaren recommended "most strongly" that the case against ITT be appealed to the Supreme Court. The 48-page memo was dated Feb. 24, 1971.

The sources confirmed the memo, addressed to U.S. Solicitor General Erwin Griswold, contained the following: "I do not suggest that (it) will be an easy case ... but, win or lose, appeal is essential to implementation of the administration's antitrust policy."

McLaren, when questioned by the Senate committee, acknowledged he agreed to the negotiated settlement on July 31 after discussions with an ITT director, Felix Rohatyn; an economic analysis of the impact of

London Assumes Rule Of N. Ireland

Reaction Is Swift To Policy

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath today ended 51 years of Protestant rule in Northern Ireland and said he would impose direct rule from London for at least a year on the province that is on the brink of civil war.

There was angry rejection of the plan from both militant Roman Catholics including members of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), and militant Protestants. One Protestant leader said the decision made civil war inevitable.

Heath announced the historic decision to a tense, packed House of Commons. His move climaxed a constitutional crisis which British commentators described as the gravest to face this country since the abdication of King Edward VIII in 1936.

In Dublin, Prime Ministeer Jack Heath issued a formal statement appealing to all sections of the community, north and south, to "consider the proposals maturely and objectively, so as to avoid further tragic suffering in Northern Ireland..." The violence there has taken nearly 300 lives.

The British move was a gamble which Britain said it would take only as a last resort.

In a television and radio broadcast address to the nation tonight, Heath said the British army will remain in Northern Ireland "as long as any faction seeks to terrorize or intimidate ordinary people."

"There will be no letup in the fight against terrorism," the Prime Minister said.

He said the government's decision to impose direct rule was designed "to make possible a completely fresh start." He said this was needed in order to break away from the escalating violence.

Heath reiterated pledges by successive British governments that Ulster will remain part of the United Kingdom as long as a majority of its population wants this and that all sections of the community "shall have their rightful opportunity to play a full part in the running of Northern Ireland."

"In taking the immediate measures I have announced today," he said, "this government is confirming and reinforcing both these assurances."

British spokesmen said Heath hoped suspension of rule by Ulster's Protestant majority and other moves including gradual phasing out of the internment without trial of suspected IRA gunmen would pacify the Roman Catholic minority.

At the same time Heath sought to placate Protestant fears of a handover to the Catholic-ruled Republic of Ireland by promising periodic plebiscite votes on the question of the North-South border in Ireland. The Protestants out-

Situation Is Grim In Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Thousands of shouting Protestant shipyard workers marched through Belfast today to protest direct British rule of the province. Both militant Roman Catholic and Protestant leaders predicted the move would unleash even more violence.

One Catholic militant predicted that Protestant reaction to the move would mean 1,000 deaths this summer. Another said it would make civil war inevitable.

The first violence since the British announcement came at 3:20 p.m. when a bomb smashed a gasoline filling station in Roden Street, just off the predominantly Catholic Grosvenor Road district of Belfast. An army spokesman said doctors at hospitals treated 13 persons.

In Londonderry, a nail bomb injured one soldier and one civilian.

Sean MacStiofain, Chief of Staff of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) militant provisional wing, said British rule would "bring a new confrontation to a head" between Catholics and Protestants."

Despite the fears thousands of shouting Protestant shipyard workers marched through Belfast without incident, cheered by office workers and others who poured into the streets.

"There will be a massive Protestant reaction" to the measures announced in London by British Prime Minister Edward Heath, said Eamonn McMann, an official of the organization which opposes internment of IRA members and suspects without trial.

Ranked four abreast, still in their overalls and with red, white and blue berets on their heads, a contingent of workers estimated by police at 6,000 put down tools at the Harland and Wolff shipyards and marched to the center of Belfast.

Workers trooped from offices and shops to sidewalks and roofs to shout support for the Protestant workers' march.

The Protestant Shankill Road district echoed with shouts of "no surrender," "we've had enough" and "we want Craig," a reference to rightwing former Home Affairs Minister William Craig, now head of the militant Protestant Ulster Vanguard Movement.

Craig, a former Home Affairs Minister, called for a two-day work stoppage beginning Monday as the opening move of a campaign against the British plan.

"Ulster is closer to civil war today than it was yesterday," Craig told a news conference.

He said any threat to the Protestant community would be met with "neighborhood protection" and asserted "we have the power to make government in this country impossible."

Meany 'Reluctantly' Quits Second Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Meany resigned today from another government panel set up by President Nixon to help try to curb inflation.

The president of the AFL-CIO, who quit the federal Pay Board Wednesday, notified Nixon in a two-sentence letter that he was withdrawing from the National Commission on Productivity because it "would not be in the best interests of the workers I have the honor to represent" to stay on.

The commission was created by Nixon in June, 1970 —with representatives of labor, business and the public —to propose ways of encouraging greater productivity in American industry as a way of counter-acting inflation.

Meany and three others of the five labor members of the Pay Board resigned, charging the panel was slanted in favor of industry at the expense of the working man.

The three who quit the Pay Board along with Meany also were named to the productivity commission —Leonard Woodcock, I. W. Abel, and Floyd Smith.

Nixon said Thursday he would not let the labor representatives torpedo his "fight to the finish" against inflation. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally accused the four labor leaders today of putting personal and political interests ahead of the national interest by dropping off the economic control panel.

Meany wrote the President today: "I have reluctantly come to the conclusion that my continued service on the National Commission on Productivity would not be in the best interests of the workers I have the honor to represent.

"I am therefore tendering my resignation as a member of the commission as of this date."

The productivity commission when named by Nixon on July 10, 1970, consisted of 23 members —six each from labor, industry and the public, plus five government appointees.

The group played only a secondary role on the administration's economic front and was generally an inactive body.

Connally said Nixon would not allow the labor leaders' refusal to participate in the controls programs to affect his determination to continue them. He was asked if the situation meant labor and the government were on a collision course.

"We're trying to drive down the middle of a broad road," Connally said. "If labor wants to run into us, I guess they'll do it. But we're not going to run away from it (our responsibility). We're going to do what we have to do to bring this inflation under control."

Connally charged that the personal and political interests of organized labor "dictated their own interests had to be placed ahead of the interests of

Teens Stage Shoot-Out Near Tam High School

Two youths staged a shoot-out with pistols today near Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley.

Neither combatant was believed hit. Both fled the scene.

The gunplay, its reason unknown to police by late morning, was staged across the eastbound lanes of heavily traveled Miller Avenue about 9:45 a.m.

One of the youths believed involved in the gun battle, David Spaulding, 18, of 31 Princess Street, Sausalito, a Tam High student, was taken into custody by Sausalito police at a service station about an hour after the shooting.

The other combatant, believed to be a 17 year old, was being sought.

Police gave this account of the gunfire:

The pair apparently was sitting on a wall in front of the high school when an argument that had broken out between the pair yesterday resumed. Spaulding is said to have walked down the street toward Hamby's drive-in restaurant, a popular gathering place for students, apparently picked up a pistol en route and then walked toward the median strip of Miller Avenue.

A shot was fired at Spaulding, and the youth leaped into a drainage ditch in the median strip to return the fire. About three shots were exchanged. Spaulding ran across the westbound lanes of Miller and fled in a car parked in the Safeway parking lot.

Spaulding's brother, Jerry Spaulding of 315 Richardson Street, Sausalito, told the Independent-Journal at the Sausalito police station that David said 14 people had been threatening him at school and that one of them had a gun.

According to the brother, David had returned to his own home in Sausalito, earlier this morning, got his .45-caliber pistol and went back to the high school.

David's father, Fred Spaulding, is a former Sausalito policeman, Jerry Spaulding said.

Food Prices Up; Warning To Chains

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Food prices in the San Francisco Bay Area increased 1.2 per cent in February, according to the government.

The big jump was still lower than the national average of 1.9 per cent, but it pushed Bay Area prices 5.7 per cent higher than a year earlier.

The store food price index here now stands at 11.93, a spokesman said Thursday. Food that cost $10 in 1967 now costs $11.93.

Bay Area meat and poultry prices jumped 10 per cent since February, 1971, including 3.3 per cent in February. Fruit and vegetable prices rose 8.1 per cent over the year.

In Washington, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally served notice on food chains that the government will be "prepared to move" —possibly even with controls —if the food price spiral continues.

But Connally, President Nixon's closest economic adviser and his designated chief spokesman, insisted that the trend downward already was under way after hitting the highest rate in 14 years last month.

Connally specifically refused to rule out food price controls, distasteful though he said the State Probe Begins On Police 'Quotas'

By PAT ANGLE

The state Attorney General's office today began an investigation of the unauthorized release this week of a grand jury subcommittee's report of a quota system of arrests in the Sausalito Police Department.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he asked the attorney general to conduct the probe because of complaints by grand jury foreman Milen C. Dempster and Joan Boessenecker, chairman of the subcommittee which investigated the department. Sausalito city officials also had complained of the early release of the report, he said.

Bales said the inquiry will attempt to determine "where the leak was" that resulted in the report's publication in three newspapers on Monday prior to its official presentation to the entire grand jury.

"I am prepared to prosecute any criminal or criminal offense that such an investigation reveals," Bales said. "In my eight years as district attorney, there have been occasional verbal leaks of grand jury proceedings, but this is the first time an entire jury report has been released illegally."

He said unauthorized disclosure of what occurs at secret grand jury hearings is a misdemeanor, punishable by a maximum penalty of six months in the county jail and/or a $500 fine.

The district attorney said he began an investigation of the leak on Monday but decided to ask the attorney general to step in yesterday "because there might be a possible conflict of interest if I investigated since I am legal advisor to the grand jury."

Deputy Attorney Gen. Timothy Riordan will head the team of two investigators, Bales said.

The grand jury, which received the subcommittee report Monday night, declined to accept the five-page document and instead directed the subcommittee to discuss the report's findings with Sausalito Mayor Alexander R. Imlay an report back to the jury Monday.

The Independent-Journal learned today from Sausalito City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr that he, Imlay and Councilman Earl F. Dunphy met on Wednesday night with members of the jury

Meat Boycott

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. William Cotter, D-Conn., today called for a nationwide boycott of meat in which American families would abstain from meat at least two days each week to protest rising prices.

Cotter said if enough consumers took part in the boycott the Cost of Living Council and President Nixon would recommend steps to stop escalating food prices and "roll back prices which have risen disproportionately high."

Balenciaga Dies

VALENCIA, Spain (UPI) — Cristobal Balenciaga, one of the world's most famous trend-setters in fashion, died last night from a heart attack, a hospital spokesman said today. He was 77.

A spokesman said he suffered the attack while vacationing at a seaside hotel at Javea, Spain. Balenciaga retired several years ago.

Balenciaga briefly came out of retirement earlier this year to design the wedding dress for Generalisimo Francisco Franco's granddaughter, Maria del Carmen Martinez-Bordiu.

Miffed At Hughes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — If Howard Hughes, Nevada's most economically important figure, won't emerge from his cherished cocoon long enough to spend one hour with two state officials and be fingerprinted, the state won't let him reorganize his gambling empire.

Representatives for Hughes indicate he won't come. Gambling authorities say they won't budge.

The state Gaming Commission, miffed that Hughes met with the President of Nicaragua, but has steadfastly refused to meet with Nevada authorities, yesterday unanimously rejected Hughes' request to make organizational changes in his multimillion dollar casino holdings.

Cartoon Pledge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The ABC, CBS and NBC television networks are trying to eliminate voluntarily unnecessary violence form children's programs.

ABC President Elton H. Rule said by next year there will be no new cartoons in which a conflict is resolved by a violent act.

Rule told the Senate communications subcommittee yesterday that half the networks' weekend cartoon programs were in the violent resolution category four years ago.

NBC President Julian Goodman and John A. Schneider, president of the CBS Broadcast Group, also outlined such efforts.

Charged In Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — A man who allegedly said he turned in the alarm which alerted authorities to a fire in the Sloane House YMCA was arrested yesterday and charged with homicide in the blaze which killed four persons in the co-ed residence.

Fire officials arrested Francisco Ramos, 27, a porter at the transient hotel, after talking to more than 350 persons. Ramos was the last person interviewed about the Wednesday night blaze.

According to fire marshals, Ramos was planning to loot valuables from hall lockers on the seventh floor.

Air Strike Praise

SAIGON (UPI) — Laotian military sources said today American air strikes had blunted a North Vietnamese offensive against an embattled base at Long Cheng but they said Communist units farther north overran four positions near the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

In Cambodia, Communist saboteurs blew a 30-yard-wide hole in the center span of the only bridge across the Tonle Sap River linking Phnom Penh with an outlying naval base and blocking one of two major roads to the north. At least two persons were killed.

Only light action was reported in South Vietnam where guerrillas carried out heavy rocket and mortar attacks Wednesday. A U.S. observation helicopter was shot down 31 miles north-northeast of Saigon but the two crewmen were rescued uninjured.

Pentagon Papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has joined Sen. Mike Gravel's battle to thwart a government investigation of his public reading from the Pentagon Papers while they were still classified top secret.

After a 55 to 27 victory yesterday, Gravel rose and challenged Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, and other Republican critics to debate the propriety of the midnight session of Gravel's Senate subcommittee on Buildings and Grounds in June where he made the documents public.

Saxbe shunned the challenge but accused the Alaska Democrat of despicable and slippery behavior.

Later Saxbe had his remarks edited for the Congressional Record to substitute the term "of questionable judgment" for the word "despicable" and "unusual" for "slippery."

In Good Condition

Robert Groves, 23, of 302 Walnut Street, Petaluma, was reported in good condition at Hillcrest Hospital with ankle and shoulder injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident occurring at 6:25 a.m. today at Twelfth and D streets, Petaluma. Police had not details of the accident.

SEYMOUR THALER
Treasury case bill

Judge Found Guilty Of Conspiracy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Seymour Thaler, a former Democratic state senator elected a New York Supreme Court judge, was convicted with two businessmen Thursday of possessing and transporting $800,000 in stolen treasury bills.

Thaler, 53, shuddered and slumped in his chair when the verdict was announced. He also was found guilty of one count of perjury stemming from his testimony before a grand jury.

Herbert R. Jacobs, a textile consultant, and Michael T. Lavelle, owner of a textile silk screen company, also were convicted of possessing and transporting the bills and of three counts of conspiracy. Both are from Long Island.

The federal government charged that Thaler, an influential figure in state Democratic politics who had conducted investigations of city hospitals, accepted the bills from Lavelle and Jacobs. The bills had been stolen from Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. on Wall Street.

The defense conceded that the bills had been stolen, but argued that none of the defendants knew that.

The jury of eight men and four women reached its verdict after 10 hours of deliberation. It acquitted Thaler of two other counts of perjury and one of conspiracy.

Thaler was elected a judge to the state's Supreme Court—roughly equivalent to county circuit courts in most states.

Severe Blow To No-Fault Insurance

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Illinois Supreme Court declared unconstitutional Thursday a law which made no-fault auto insurance mandatory for all insurance companies operating in the state.

The 5-2 ruling has thrown the companies into confusion and it may go all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

As of Jan. 1, all insurance policies in Illinois covering private passenger cars included no-fault benefits.

That meant basically that a driver's own insurance company paid, without determining who is at fault, for medical or funeral expenses and for income (not always all of it) lost due to auto injury.

The court upheld a decision handed down Dec. 29 by Cook Couty Circuit Judge Daniel A. Covelli who said the law as written discriminated against the poor. But the high court issued no reasons with its ruling, although it said those would come later..

In Las Vegas, Marvin Lewis, president of the American Trial Lawyers Association, told officers of the 30,000-members group that the ruling "is going to knock out most of the no fault bills that are being considered throughout the country."

Lewis, a San Francisco attorney who has been lobbying vigorously against no-fault,said no-fault insurance legislation constituted a "rationing of justice which is unfair to everyone."

All the insurance companies said that all policyholders will still be covered by their policies. The question is whether they also will receive the no-fault benefits.

State Farm Insurance Co., largest in the state with 777,000 auto policyholders, said it hasn't made a decision yet. "About all we can say with certainty is that all of our policyholders have coverage," a spokesman said.

Allstate, the second largest company in the state with 662,000 policies, said it will continue to give no-fault benefits until the high court clarifies its ruling. The state Department of Insurance recommended that other companies follow that course.

Photographs Upheld In Criminal Cases

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Illegally obtained photographs may be used to identify a criminal suspect, the California Supreme Cgurt ruled Thursday.

In a 4-3 decision written by Associate Justice Stanley Mosk, the court upheld the Oct. 28, 1968, conviction of James McInnis for armed robbery of a Pasadena liquor store.

McInnis was convicted after Los Angeles police later picked him up in an arrest admitted to be unlawful and obtained his photograph.

Until he had seen that photograph, the clerk at the liquor store had been unable to identify McInnis.

Mosk said the procedure was not a violation of McInnis' constitutional rights because "the illegal arrest was in no way related to the crime with which defendant was ultimately involved."

Mosk said police normally take photographs of arrested persons during the booking procedure, and whatever the outcome of the arrest, investigators keep the mug shots.

In a lengthy dissent of the decision, Justice Mathew O. Tobringer argued that the decision "further erodes tha protection afforded all citizens against unconstitutional methods of law enforcement."

He said the ruling would "reward illegal police activity, thereby threatening the liberty of our citizenry."

Smog Inspectors Will Act On Citizen Gripes

Citizens complaining the air stinks or a neighbor is burning rubber tires no longer will have the frustration of reporting to an answering service on weekends.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District instead will have an inspector on duty between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. He will receive complaints at the district's San Francisco headquarters and radio them to inspectors in the field.

The answering service, however, still will be used for night calls after 5 p.m.

In Marin, complaining citizens should call the district's San Francisco headquarters, not the monitoring station in San Rafael.

Sierra Passes May Open Early

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Four Sierra highways closed since autumn by winter snow may be opened about three weeks earlier than usual, state Highway Engineer Robert J. Datel said today.

He said maintenance crews this week began clearing California 89 through Monitor Pass, California 88 at Carson Pass, California 108 at Sonora Pass and California 4 at Ebbetts Pass.

If the weather remains fair, he said California 89 is expected to be opened around April 1 and the other highways would be opened in late April.

Just Like Old Days —Hayakawa Heckled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— There was San Francisco State College President S. I. Hayakawa front stage center beginning his first campus lecture in three years. And, just like old times, there were the student hecklers, shouting above Hayakawa's voice and interrupting his speech.

"We're going to show him that this campus isn't content like he thinks it is," said Bill Wyman, an SDS member, who was suspended from campus last January.

The shouting began almost as soon as the noted semanticist began his lecture on "Self Concept and Communication" Thursday.

But students loudly demanded that Hayakawa speak on racism and the firing of certain professors on campus instead of his intended topic.

"What are you afraid of?" they demanded.

"I'm not afraid of a God-damned thing," Hayakawa retorted in typically salty fashion "least of all you."

The president said he would answer any questions after he finished his talk at 1:15. At that point, about half the members of the audience left and announced they would return for the question period.

During the question period, most questions centered around racism. Students asked what Hayakawa was going to do about the firing of liberal professors and the hiring of racist ones.

"If any specific charges of racism are submitted in written form, they will be dealt with right away," he replied.

Students complained that a history and social science textbook, "The Unheavenly City," by Edward C. Danfield, was racist and asked the president what he was going to do about that.

"I've read part of the book and I don't find it racist," Hayakawa answered.

"Liar, liar ... you're a liar" students shouted back.

"Don't call me a liar," Hayakawa replied.

As the heckling increased, he reminded the audience of the importance of academic freedom and said both sides of any controversy should be politely listened to, no matter how distasteful it might be to the listener.

His point must have been well taken, for at the completion of the talks, dozens of students crowded around to congratulate him.

Probation For Jail Escaper

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The first prisoner to be recaptured among 24 who escaped the county jail here Monday was released on probation Thursday.

Arthur Tarpley, 23, had told prison officials he went along on the escape reluctantly.

He also explained how the escape was planned and how a gun was smuggled into the Hamilton County Jail, on the sixth floor of the courthouse building. He said an unidentified woman tied the gun onto a string lowered from a jail window to a fifth-floor courtroom window.

Tarpley was released on five years probation after pleading guilty to robbery charges. He had been removed to the city jail to ensure his protection Tuesday.

Another escapee, Garrison Berry, 23, surrendered to city police Thursday, bringing to 11 the number of prisoners returned to custody.

Island Firm 'Saves' City Of Paris

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The famed City of Paris department store, a San Francisco fixture since the Gold Rush days, has been saved from extinction by an Hawaii-based firm.

The City of Paris, which first set up business 122 years ago on the deck of a ship loaded with exclusive goods from Paris, was scheduled to bid au revoir Saturday.

Instead, it will close down for two months for remodeling and reopen for business.

The department store was taken over Thursday by Amfac, a $450 million Hawaii-based corporation which will dub the store City of Paris by Liberty House. The new name will mark the store's role as a member of the firm's Liberty House department store group.

The present store, built shortly after the 1906 earthquake, will keep its high fashion women's department, antique collection, Normandy Lane French food department and its huge traditional rotating Christmas tree.

Walker would not discuss the terms of the lease with Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc., owners of the present building.

No members of the Verdier family of France, who founded the store and operated it for almost its entire history, will be connected with the new management.

However, the name of the Verdier Cellars, consisting of thousands of bottles of fine wines, will be unchanged.

U.S. Outlaws Some Mercury Products

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning of damage to the brain and nervous system, the government banned one group of mercury-containing products today and initiated steps leading toward a ban on others.

The ban, issued by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), immediately outlawed interstate shipment of all alkyl mercury pesticides and all mercury products used on rice seed and laundry fabrics and mixed into antifouling boat paints.

The banned pesticides have been used to prevent fungi growth on cotton, ornamental plants, turf, and farm and greenhouse equipment, and to control spots and blights on trees and shrubs. Some also are used to preserve wood and retard mold and mildew.

The EPA initiated cancellation action against a much larger group of mercury products used in mildewproofing paint, log and lumber treatment, and to control stinking smut on wheat, snow mold on golf courses, and leaf stripe disease on barley.

Secret Talks Two Years Ago Between Hussein, Israeli Told

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

King Hussein of Jordan and Deputy Premier Yigal Allon of Israel held a secret meeting in a car parked on the border in an effort to work out a peace plan, the influential editor of the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, in his weekly column in Al Ahram, claimed the meeting took place in October 1970 at Wadi Araba near the Jordanian port city of Aqaba. He said they discussed the status of the West Bank of the Jordan River, which Israel took from Jordan in the 1967 war.

The agreement, which provided for the demilitarization of the area, Israeli withdrawal and establishment of Israeli defensive settlements along the Jordan River, hinged on Egypt and Israel reaching an agreement to reopen the Suez Canal, Heikel said. When the canal accord was not forthcoming, the Hussein-Allon agreement was delayed.

At a news conference in Amman Thursday, Hussein denied he had any contacts with Israel on his recently-announced plan to establish a semiautonomous Palestinian state on the West Bank area. His plan was dependent on Israeli withdrawal, and drew negative reaction.

Humphrey Calls Pay Board 'Sham, Hoax'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey today attacked President Nixon's Pay Board as a "sham and a hoax" and his proposed 5 per cent Social Security increase as "nitpicking, penny ante politics."

The Minnesota senator also said "there might have been some judicial meddling" in the court decision that forced San Francisco into a controversial school busing program last year. He added the answer to racial integration was "open housing."

He said Nixon should "get off this kick that the only thing you have to do is travel internationally." And he said "as long as this uncertainty" exists in the ITT case "Mr. (Richard G.) Kleindienst is never going to be attorney general."

Humphrey, kicking off a brief campaign swing in the state where he narrowly lost to Nixon in 1968, broadly attacked the President on several fronts and attempted to explain his busing stand during a question and answer session with the Sacramento ress Club.

Humphrey said he had written Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee of which he is a member, urging "a fullscale inquiry and investigation" into the wage and price boards.

He charged both had been a "sham, a hoax" and said they have "served the will of the White House." He contended "political muscle has been used" by the White House on the Pay Board, where four labor leaders resigned in bitter protest against its policies.

"The Nixon program for economic stabilization is tilted one way. It's tilted toward the big guy, it's tilted toward the super rich," Humphrey said.

Humphrey lashed out at Nixon's suggested 5 per cent Social Security increase for the aged as "an insult."

"What's he talking about," Humphrey shouted. "They need a 25 per cent increase— tomorrow morning. Had I been president, you'd had a president fighting for it, instead of this kind of nitpicking, penny ante politics. Five per cent. Makes me furious to even talk about it."

On busing, Humphrey—in answer to a question—said he recalled that the Chinese community in San Francisco was enjoying good schools and was "very happy with their situation." Then a court ordered crosstown busing.

"It is my judgment in that matter there might have been some judicial meddling far beyond what is needed," Humphrey said.

Humphrey described busing as "one of the great tools of the education system in our country. But massive compulsory busing that had as its only purpose and its sole purpose racial balance on a mathematical or quota formula, I do not think is helpful or is justified.

"It becomes a matter of trying to solve a race problem rather than trying to solve an education problem."

On ITT, Humphrey said "a shadow and a cloud hangs over the entire government of the United States. Mr. Nixon should order those in charge to reveal all documents, to lay it on the table. Clean it up once and for all."

And he said, "if Mr. Nixon was as interested in putting people back to work as he is in what he calls 'international affairs' we'd be going someplace. I want to be president to take care of this country for awhile."

In a speech prepared for delivery later at Hastings Law School in San Francisco, Humphrey charged that the Law Enforcement Assistant Administration under Nixon "has become one of the nation's greatest and costliest scandals." He said it has "wasted" nearly $2 billion in crime-fighting money.

Humphrey, referring to California as "the sweepstakes" state, also was to eat lunch with crab fishermen at Fishermen's Wharf, attend a campaign rally, a reception at San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's home and a $500-per-plate fund raising banquet.

He flew to Sacramento Thursday night from Nebraska.

subcommittee which investigated the city's police department. But St. Cyr declined to say what had been discussed at the closed session.

In the report, prepared after an eight-month investigation of Sausalito police, the subcommittee of the jury's administration of justice committee found that policeman, in order to receive favorable evaluations, were required to make a certain number of arrests and field interrogations and issue a minimum number of traffic and other citations.

The report was criticized by some witnesses and complainants and a former juror as a whitewash of the police department because it did not deal with numerous other charges brought by citizens to the grand jury.

the multibillion dollar case by a private consultant, and talks with two Treasury officials on the possible adverse effect on the nation's balance of payments.

McLaren's reference to an appeal was to a lower court's rejection of Justice Department attempts to stop ITT from acquiring a company that makes fire control systems.

According to the Times, McLaren said in his memorandum to Griswold: "I recommend most strongly that we appeal this case to the Supreme Court. At my confirmation hearing, and since then, I have taken the position that the antitrust division must move vigorously to halt the trend toward economic concentration which has resulted from the wave of conglomerate mergers that have taken place in the last decade."

In another development, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., urged President Nixon to withdraw the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general because of his role in the ITT case.

Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) similarly recommended that the Senate reject Kleindienst's nomination.

The ADA appeal in a letter Thursday was the first formal suggestion that Kleindienst be turned down for the cabinet post.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., asked separately for an investigation of charges by Life magazine that Kleindienst played a part in quashing an investigation of political associates of President Nixon whose contributions to GOP political campaigns violated the Corrupt Practices Act.

REACTION

number the Catholics two to one.

Instead of a troop withdrawal Heath announced that 4,000 more British troops had been placed on standby alert to be flown to Northern Ireland to bolster the 14,500 already there if "serious trouble" develops in the wake of today's decision.

Heath told Parliament that he would introduce legislation necessary to carry out his plans before Easter Sunday April 2, and opposition Labor Party leader Harold Wilson immediately pledged his party's support, ensuring quick passage of the legislation.

Heath's announcement followed two days of conferences with Northern Ireland Premier Brian Faulkner. Faulkner said he and his Belfast cabinet spurned the British measures as "maintaining a mere sham, or a face-saving charade." But he said he would remain in office for a few days because he believed it was his duty.

Heath said he was forced to the action by an ultimatum from Faulkner that he and his whole cabinet would quit if Britain went through with the plan.

Heath announced appointment of a special minister for Northern Ireland to handle law and order in the province. He said he would be William Whitelaw, leader of the House of Commons, regarded as one of the more liberal-minded members of the governing Conservative Party.

Northern Ireland, a province made up of six counties called Ulster, has been an integral part of the United Kingdom with limited internal self-government since 1920. The Belfast government was controlled by Protestants during that period.

The Catholic minority said this government has discriminated against it in jobs, housing and other matters and the bitter feeling erupted in violence in 1969. The IRA, which is outlawed both in Northern Ireland and in the Republic of Ireland, unleashed violence which it hoped would return the six northern counties to Ireland.

"We remain determined to find means of ensuring for the minority, as well as the majority community, an active, permanent and guaranteed role in life and public affairs of the province," Heath said.

Claims by Northern Ireland's Roman Catholics that the majority Protestants have denied them equal rights in the running of the country was the main issue that touched off the bloody fighting that has claimed 286 lives in three years.

Heath said that so long as "active terrorism" persists and "until respect of law and a normal situation of order have been restored throughout the province," Britain must retain the power to arrest and intern those believed to be responsible.

Youths Treated For Drug Dose

Two San Jose junior high school students suffered from an overdose of mescaline last night, according to Novato police.

Officers said Steven Delbert McDaniel, 13, of 545 Sunset Parkway, was treated at Novato General Hospital and Robert William McClean, 15, of 12 Dusel Court was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

The students reportedly purchased the capsules during a fashion show at the school and consumed two-and-a-half capsules each in a restroom.

FOOD

administration considered them, as one method of halting the food price escalation.

"We're saying to all the retailers —watch your prices, watch your prices, because we are going to be prepared to move," Connally declared. "We're going to see why this sudden increase in food prices happened. We think they ought to start a downward trend."

Connally was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that grocery prices rose 1.9 per cent in February, highest for any month since March, 1958. Overall consumer prices increased 0.5 per cent, and Connally said that if food prices were left out of the computations, the cost of living situation for February was "a great story —really terrific."

Nonfood items of the index declined, Connally said. "Food prices go up, food prices go down," Connally said, but when other basic consumer costs rise sharply, they are very slow to come down.

"Food prices are very volatile."

Connally said that since the statistics were gathered for the February food price index, food prices had started leveling off.

"The truth of the matter is, I think, we hit the high mark in meat prices two weeks ago. They're trending downward."

Meat prices have been largely blamed for the sharp food price rise, and at least two major national foodstore chains have suggested in advertisements to customers that they consider poultry and fish as alternatives to red meat.

Connally, a Texan, expressed sympathy with both cattlemen and farmers whose costs he said had risen about 10 times the level of their prices in the past 10 years.

Connally said in addition, that meat prices —though having risen at an estimated 15 to 20 per cent in some areas in the past year —were lower now than in 1969 and 1970.

After the price report Thursday, Chairman C. Jackson Grayson of the Price Commission announced that a public hearing would be held in Washington April 12 to explore the causes of skyrocketing food prices. Grayson said, "We're going to recommend specific action (if) this trend continues."

Library Friends Adopt Bylaws

An organizational meeting of Friends of the San Rafael Library last night adopted bylaws for the proposed organization.

A committee seeking to form the group set a charter meeting for 8 p.m. May 4 at San Rafael City Hall.

According to the bylaws, the group hopes to sponsor displays, guest speakers, and activities for young people and senior citizens, and generally to aid in the development of the San Rafael library as a cultural and social center.

Jeanne Wasp of 2 Mountain View Avenue was named temporary chairman of the group, to serve until the charter membership meeting.

ECONOMY

the American people in controlling inflation."

Connally made the statements just prior to a meeting of the Pay Board to reorganize it in the wake of the resignation of all but one of the five labor members and President Nixon's decision Thursday to remove four of the five business members and make the board a public body.

The five public members of the board remained —meaning the board was reduced in size from 15 to seven.

Connally was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

The Treasury Secretary disputed charges by Meany, AFLCIO president, and the other labor leaders that the Pay Board was unfair to labor. Connally said this was not supported by the facts.

He said labor voted with the majority on the Pay Board in 36 of the 54 decisions it had made so far and that most actions affecting major wage contracts were decided in labor's favor.

He challenged the resigned labor members' charge that the Pay Board was too rigid in holding down wage increases and was biased toward the business viewpoint.

"One criticism of the American people is that the Pay Board has been too lenient," said Connally.

He pointed out that the board had approved a 14.9 per cent increase for West Coast dock workers —well above its basic guideline —despite cutting back the contract agreement by about one fourth. The board's cutback of the docks agreement was a factor in the labor member's walkout.

Wives-Over-60 Medicare Voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Finance Committee has voted to allow wives over age 60 to buy Medicare health insurance from the government if their husbands are covered by Medicare.

If Congress agrees, this would help solve a problem created when husbands retire at age 65, losing the private health insurance provided by their employers to cover themselves and their wives. Couples often find private health insurance for wives prohibitively expensive but the wives still have to wait to reach age 65 before they become eligible for Medicare coverage.

A committee aide said the cost for coverage of both doctors' and hospital bills for wives would be about $35 a month.

Giacomini Plea For Transit Line

Marin Transit Systems should be used to make up shortcomings in local service by the Golden Gate Bridge District, supervisorial candidate Gary Giacomini said last night.

He made the proposal at a reception at the Corte Madera home of Donal Brown, saying the success of the district's commuter service is at the expense of service within the county.

Giacomini, a resident of Woodacre and an attorney, said "the peak intercounty demand exactly coincides with the peak intracounty demand."

LONDON

A statement by Premier Brian Faulkner said he and his cabinet spurned the British measures as "maintaining a mere sham, or a face-saving charade."

Faulkner said, however, he agreed to remain in office for a few days because he believed it was his duty.

"I fear that many people will draw a sinister and depressing message from these events— that violence can pay, that violence does pay; that those who shout, lie and denigrate and even destroy earn for themselves an attention that responsible conduct and honorable behavior do not," Faulkner said.

Macstiofian said IRA "operations will continue until there is a complete withdrawal of British troops from the streets of Northern Ireland." He said direct rule from London would "make it clear to the Irish people who the real enemy is."

Frazer Agnew, Belfast chairman of the Protestant Young Unionist party organization, said Heath's measures represented a betrayal of Ulster and a surrender to the IRA.

"Mr. Heath has abdicated and surrendered to the murder gangs of the IRA, and his methods have provided succor and given encouragement to their methods and ideals, proving once and for all that violence pays," Agnew said.

"This act of betrayal to Ulster loyalists has hastened the inevitability of civil war," Agnew said.

William Craig, rightwing former home affiars minister and head of the militant protestant Ulster Vanguard movement, refused to make any comment "at this stage."

A spokesman at Belfast headquarters of the Ulster Civil Rights Association said, "We have nothing to say—yet!"

Washington Is Disaster Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today declared the state of Washington a major disaster area so federal relief could be provided as a result of extensive flooding in the west-central portion during February and March.

The presidential declaration was requested by Gov. Daniel J. Evans who advised Nixon estimates of damage to private and public property exceeded $9.9 million.

It was the second disaster declaration for the state this year. On Feb. 1 the President issued an order following severe storms and flooding in the eastern part of the state and the west coastal areas.

Hollis In Support Of Year-Round School Plan

By JAY GOODWIN

Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County Schools superintendent, last night declared himself in favor of year-round operation of schools and predicted such for Marin in five years.

Hollis's endorsement followed a description of year-round operation by three representatives from Chula Vista School District in San Diego County, where it was put into effect in four elementary schools last July.

It has proven popular with Chula Vista parents, teachers and students, they told the audience of about 80 persons gathered in Guzman Hall at Dominican College for the meeting sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa, a fraternity of Marin County educators.

Outlining the system, in which they found many advantages and few shortcomings, were Chula Vista Supt. Burton C. Tiffany, Asst. Supt. Leonard N. Servetter and Frances Reed, general supervisor.

Of various versions of year-round operation their district adopted what has come to be known as the "45-15" program, because each pupil attends school for nine consecutive weeks, or 45 days and then goes on vacation for three weeks, or 15 days. This 60-day cycle is repeated by each student four times in each calendar year. Thus, each student attends school for 175 days, meeting the state's minimum requirements.

On any given day, three quarters of the student population is in school, while one quarter is on vacation. Rather than one long vacation during the summer, all students receive three-week vacations four times each year.

For an hour and a half, the trio from Southern California showed slides, played tapes and lectured.

"Interest is now so widespread that no board can afford to dismiss the idea without considering the pros and cons," declared Superintendent Tiffany.

He then listed advantages that year-round scheduling provides:

Greater utilization of existing school facilities - with less crowding.

Increased flexibility for families in vacation planning.

Less need to review forgotten lessons with pupils returning from shorter vacations.

Less boredom among children now given an overlong 10-week summer vacation.

Greater flexibility for teachers and staff in determining vacation periods.

Decreased costs for school districts that accomodate more pupils in less space with less crowding.

The only disadvantages that Tiffany could readily see were increased air conditioning expenses, hampered community-school communication, additional maintenance costs and "the violation of the sanctity of the good old American summer vacation."

"Our hunches about the year-round program are that it will have positive effects upon learning retention, attitude twoard school and self, and mental health," said Tiffany.

Tiffany stressed that the concept envisions "major changes in the calendar, not in content." In response to a question from the audience, he doubted that year-round schooling would have a detrimental effect on learning.

He said the program is under continuing evaluation in the district.

Public opinion in the district, according to Servetter, is solidly behind the new calendar. After three months, he said, more than 70 per cent of the students, teachers and parents approved of the new plan.

Commenting on the idea after the meeting, Marin Superintendent Hollis said, "We haven't gotten started yet on this; but I'm definitely interested. I want the program to develop here among teachers, administrators and the community. I haven't yet been able to generate the interest and enthusiasm that's needed to start this in Marin County.

"We can't afford, in today's schools, to not do something. Within five years I hope to see it in all our schools."

Demos Slap Nixon Busing Restrictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Some Democratic senators today sharply attacked President Nixon's proposals to restrict school busing while focusing more money on inner city schools, saying they called for too little money while tending to restrict rights of ghetto children.

HEW Secretary Elliott L. Richardson, appearing in support of the plan before a Senate committee, was caught in a verbal crossfire of charges and critical questions before he could even read his opening statement defending the "shift of emphasis" in administration educational policies.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Education Committee, said the President's proposals including a moratorium until mid-1973 on court busing orders "have not proved to be all I had expected."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., challenged Richardson to show how the plan could live up to the administration claim of providing quality in inner city schools without calling for any new money.

Kennedy and other committee members said the President was simply proposing shifts in funds already authorized by Congress or in a bill already passed by the House and Senate.

"I want to say how distressed I was by the presentation, which in many respects misled the American people," Kennedy said.

Kennedy criticized the proposal to place congressional restriction on the power of courts to use busing as a remedy for racial isolation in schools or inequality in educational opportunity.

Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., added that the plight of minority children in ghetto schools across the nation was a "national disgrace and a national scandal."

"By every test these children by the millions are not achieving any skills that give them any hope in American life," Mondale said.

Mondale and some other senators asked Richardson if the President expected to meet his goal of compensating the inner city children while restricting their chances of better education by being bused to better schools.

Richardson said analyses of the past two years showed that a "shift of emphasis" in use of federal school funds could bring spending levels on behalf of disadvantaged children up to the point that would result in meaningful improvement in education quality.

Mondale said that was inconsistent with what he said was an earlier administration position that money alone did little good.

"I don't know how anybody can follow what the policy of this country is regarding one of the most compelling tragedies facing this country," Mondale said.

Richardson asserted that the administration was "in no sense" abandoning the idea that desegregation was a valuable part of education.

In his prepared text, Richardson said the proposed busing moratorium would not affect the government's enforcement of civil rights law.

"To rechart our course is not to abandon it," he asserted.

Richardson said the moratorium's purpose was "to give the Congress time to consider statutory alternatives to the current judicial emphasis on student assignment plans involving extensive transportation in desegregation purposes."

He added that "the moratorium would not affect any determinations of constitutional rights," referring to federal enforcement of civil rights laws. "Litigation and administrative action could continue."

Opposition came not only from Democrats but from one member of Nixon's own party who threatened a filibuster against the plan.

Nixons To Meet At Camp David

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ens. David Eisenhower, President Nixon's son-in-law, will turn 25 one week from today and it appeared the First Family would mark the Easter weekend with a gathering at Camp David, Md.

Eisenhower is stationed on the USS Albany, a guided missile cruiser whose home port is Atlantic, Beach, Fla. There were earlier reports that the Nixons might spend Easter in California, but aides now say that is not likely.

Escapee Caught After Bank Try

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— One of nine men who made a daring escape from the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City was caught Thursday when he tried to rob a bank guarded by a teller-policeman.

Officer Edmund Pryal chased Charles Ball 24, from a downtown Bank of America branch after Ball gave Pryal a note demanding money. Ball got away with $300 but was caught at a nearby barbershop.

Ball was held in Redwood City on suspicion of car theft, assault on a police officer, and possession of narcotics.

The day before, Ball and eight other inmates strolled out of the county jail.

Illegitimate Children Plan

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI)— The state should have the power to take away from an unwed mother any illegitimate children after the first two and all illegitimate children of girls under 16, the California Social Welfare Board proposed Thursday.

The board also recommended the state be empowered to take away illegitimate children from a mother who would not aid investigators in identifying the father.

"What we are saying is that a woman does not have the right to have as many illegitimate children as she chooses," said Board Chairman Robert Mitchell, a Norwalk attorney, to a news conference.

"That is not normal in our society and it is not acceptable in our society."

Drop Charge Against Seven, Defense Asks

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)— The defense moved today to dismiss the indictment against the Harrisburg Seven on grounds the prosecution had failed to prove a conspiracy against the government.

Federal Judge R. Dixon Herman did not rule immediately on the motion of defense Attorney Leonard Boudin. It was one of a series of defense motions which are part of the judicial process at the end of the prosecution case.

The motions to strike out various parts of government testimony, to dismiss the indictment, and to acquit individual defendants were made in the absence of the jury of nine women and three men, which has been sitting for five weeks in the case of the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan and six other antiwar activists.

Boudin argued that in a conspiracy "everyone knows there must be an agreement, and in this case the indictment charges a single agreement." He said the government had failed to establish a "consentual element" on the part of all seven defendants, who are charged in a kidnap-bomb plot.

Boudin said on the third element of the charge, conspiring to raid draft boards, the government had not established "a single agreement" among all seven but may have established a series of agreements.

The defense opened its case with a charge the seven were prosecuted to save face for the government as a favor to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Their defense is based on the premise that the government has intentionally and purposefully discriminated against them in bad faith, a memorandum filed prior to arguments said. It read in part:

"The prosecution...was not an attempt to convict them for what they had done, but an attempt to vindicate the administration for charges it could not support. It turned into a deliberate effort to prosecute them at any cost to save face for the government."

The charge, part of a defense motion to dismiss the indictment against the anti-Vietnam War activists on the grounds of "discriminatory prosecution," said the thrust of the defense case would be testimony and documents to show they are being tried mainly to vindicate Hoover and the Justice Department.

"The defendants have a complete defense insofar as they are being prosecuted as a favor to the director of the FBI," it said. "The Constitution outlaws prosecution based on that kind of 'purposeful and intentional discrimination,'"

The government rested its case Thursday after producing 64 witnesses in an attempt to prove that the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, five other Roman Catholic clerics and a Pakistani Moslem plotted in 1970 to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, blow up Washington heating tunnels and vandalize draftboards to publicize their cause.

With arguments set for today, the defense testimony was to begin next week, coincident with weeklong peace movement demonstration here climaxed April 1 by a Holy Saturday mass rally by a hoped-for 15,000 demonstrators against war and repression.

Leaders Push 2-Year Legislative Session

By GEORGE SKELTON

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative leaders of both parties have proposed a state constitutional amendment to operate the California Legislature on a two-year session system, similar to Congress.

They vowed not to be dissuaded by lobbyists who have opposed such a system in the past.

"We don't intend to permit them to stand in the way of a more effective legislature simply because a new system may not be convenient for them," said Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

The proposed constitutional amendment was announced at a news conference by the legislature's top four leaders— Moretti; Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego; Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy, and Senate Republican leader Fred Marler Jr. of Redding.

They predicted the measure will pass each house by the necessary two-thirds vote and be presented to the voters on the November ballot. It does not have to be approved by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Now, the California Legislature meets in annual session. At the end of each year's session bills which have not passed are automatically dead. If their authors wish to sponsor them again, the measures must be reintroduced in the next session.

Under the congressional-type proposal, bills would have a two-year life if they were not killed by a vote. Measures could carry over into the second year of a session if they were approved in the house they were originally introduced by the 30th day of the second year.

The legislative leaders noted some powerful lobbyists have privately, behind the scenes, opposed a system which would give bills a two-year life because they preferred that measures be killed as quickly as possible.

"Some of them have been here a long time working under the old system," said Monagan, "and are just resistant to any change."

The proposal also had these features:

Legislators' terms would begin on the Monday after Dec. 1 following the November election. Now, their terms begin in January. The idea is to reduce the time a defeated legislator stays in office.

The legislature also would convene its new session in December, rather than January, for the purpose of electing officers and organizing.

The legislature would be in continuous operation over a two-year period, although the houses could recess from time to time to permit committees to conduct interim studies.

The special five-day sessions to consider whether to override gubernatorial vetoes would be eliminated, No veto has been overridden since 1946.

A prohibition against either house recessing for more than three days without the permission of the other would be eliminated.

Regular bills would go into effect on the first Jan. 1 after 90 days had elapsed since passage. Now, they become effective 90 days after a session adjourns.

Bills which did not deal with elections, taxes or appropriations would have to be passed by Sept. 1 during the second year of a session.

Marler said he was "very confident" the proposal would pass the Senate this year. "This is truly bipartisan," he said.

No Sparks Fly At Session On Hilarita

A potential knock-down, drag-out verbal battle over the Tiburon Ecumenical Association's controversial plan for low and moderate income housing at the Hilarita Housing site failed to materialize last night.

Residents probed density, traffic, taxes, impact on schools and controls over pkeep, occupancy selection and costs, and the majority appeared to favor the project.

The session, billed as an information meeting, came on the eve of the start of a court hearing on a suit by seven residents to halt the project, which has long been the subject of bitter community debate.

At the outset, E. G. Weed, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, told an audience of about 165 persons at the Community Congregational Church the plaintiffs had been advised by their attorney it would be inappropriate to attend the session.

Wallace S. Myers, attorney for the plaintiffs, had suggested in a letter to his clients that since the matter was "before the court," discussion at an open meeting "at this time would be inappropriate."

One of the charges against the project is that the density, 112 units on 8.2 acres, 14 units to an acre, is too high.

Weed's reply was that the original Hilarita site was 15 acres, including two acres sold to the Reed School District which won't have homes, 2.8 acres deeded for open space and 2.2 acres projected for a city park.

Taking all that land into consideration, the overall density would be 8.75 units per acre, he said.

Weed opened the meeting answering a list of questions submitted by what he called "the opposition."

As to whether the project would increase student enrollment causing difficulty in the school district, he estimated that among 400 residents, there would be 91 elementary pupils and 30 high school pupils.

School officials said that amount wouldn't pose any "great problem," with students divided between Reed and Del Mar Schools, Weed reported.

On the amount of taxes to be paid development, Weed said it would be about four times the $9,400 a year "in lieu" taxes now paid by the Marin County Housing Authority, which operates the Hilarita project.

As to the increased costs to the city as a result of the project, Weed said the average taxpayer will pay $3.50 more a year than if the project didn't exist. "If we aren't willing to pay that, we should forget it right now."

On who would occupy the units, Weed said persons now living in Hilarita would be given first preference; moderate income residents who work in Tiburon and can't live there because of the expense would be second, and long time residents on fixed incomes would be third on the priority list.

Up to 20 per cent of the units are to be rented to low income families either through a rent supplement program or under the Marin County Housing Authority's leased housing program, he said. Weed said he hoped the low income maximum could be hiked to 30 per cent so that more of the present residents could remain.

Project architect Peter Gordon said the buildings would cover only 11 per cent of the site, extensive soil stabilization work would be done and about 500 trees would be planted on the site.

During a break, Councilman Branwell D. Fanning, who voted against the project, told reporters "the meeting is rigged." He showed them a letter from the Tiburon Sanitary District saying the district didn't have the reserve capacity to serve the expected project.

The residents broke up into small discussion groups for a half-hour and then a spokesman for each group raised a question.

One man wanted to know if the association would have control over applicants sent by the housing authority.

"Yes," Weed said. If an applicant isn't qualified "for reasons other than money," then he's not admitted.

What would disqualify an applicant, a woman asked. First, would be the priority system, and then "such a thing as a bad police record would mitigate against him," Weed said.

There was some concern about upkeep of the units, and Weed said the association's management consultant, Hanford-Freund and Co., is preparing a 60-page brochure on maintenance procedures that will cover upkeep.

On increased traffic generated by the project, Gordon said the entrance to Hilarita would have to be widened and a traffic light installed on Tiburon Boulevard "at the intersection."

About 25 persons left after the association's opening presentation and before the audience went into group discussion.

Evaluation Of Courses Is Sought

By GREG CAESAR
(Redwood High School News Bureau)

To inform Redwood High School teachers of student opinion on the courses they teach, Student Body President Scott Setrakian has proposed end-of-semester class evaluations by students for all Redwood courses. Setrakian said he hopes that teachers will use the epaluations to change if necessary the way they offer a course to better fit student expectations and needs.

Setrakian took his proposal first to the Redwood Executive Council, where it was heartily approved, then took it to the Department chairman Council where it was also favorably received last week. Now department chairmen are going to discuss the idea with the rest of the teachers in their departments before making a final verdict.

Setrakian has already formulated the questionnaire, which would be distributed by every teacher to each student. He patterned it after a questionnaire used at the University of California at Berkeley where the students fill them out and give them to department administrators rather than directly to the teachers, as Setrakian plans to do at Redwood. He changed some of the rather thick language used and shortened it to about 25 statements, each of which the student is asked to eihter 1) agree strongly with, 2) agree, 3) disagree, 4) disagree strongly with, or find 5) not applicable. There will also be a place for additional specific comments on topics not covered by the 25 statements.

Setrakian would have the evaluations used this semester, and he hopes it is made mandatory for all classes. If they are not mandatory, he fears that many of the teachers who could benefit will simply not pass them out.

In any case, the evaluations are strictly meant for the teacher's use and no one else's he said. And as to their use, it will be up to each individual teacher to interpret the evaluations, and decide if changes are warranted.

Planners Turn Down Apartment Proposal

The Rohnert Park Planning Commission last night rejected plans for an apartment development at Avram Avenue and Santa Alicia Drive, calling for better design.

Patrick Taylor and Olaf Gross had requested approval for 36 apartment units on 1.25 acres.

Commission secretary Sandra Nelson said the commission objected to the modular style of design and added that the plan did not provide best use of the land. It also asked for a survey of the property and a map showing the Copeland Creek right of way and how that might affect the plan.

In other business, the commission heard developer Norman Spivock outline plans for development of 250 acres north of the municipal golf course. Plans included single-family homes, townhouses and a large park.

The commission said it would need more detailed plans before giving Spivock an opinion, but said it would object to lot frontages of 45 or 50 feet as too small.

The commission approved the request of Redwood Estates mobile home park for a six-month extension before installing directional signs.

Lawman Charged In Gun Death

FREEPORT, N.Y. (UPI)—Two off-duty New York City policemen, returning from the funeral of a colleague slain in a holdup, became involved in a brawl Thursday which ended with one of them shot to death and the other charged with murder.

Police said William McQuillan, 29, a motorcycle policeman in the Bronx, allegedly shot and killed detective Ronald Chocko, 32, after an argument in a Freeport tavern.

Both men had returned from the funeral of patrolman Elijah Stroud, who was killed last Saturday while trying to stop a holdup in Brooklyn.

Young Man Leaps Off Gate Span

Two Marin County residents pleaded in vain with a young man about to jump off the Golden Gate Bridge last night. The man, balancing on a girder as he listened, leaped off into space anyway.

No body has been found, but the jumper has tentatively been identified by the California Highway Patrol as Edwin K. Moellman, 23, of Pinole, a recently returned Vietnam veteran. His car was found parked near the bridge and a subsequent check with relatives showed him missing.

The highway patrol said two Marin residents, Paul D. Faw of San Anselmo and Stephen C. Fiske of Mill Valley, stopped their cars midspan on the bridge about 7 p.m. yesterday when they saw the man believed to be Moellman climbing over the railing.

After the leap, the Coast Guard searched the waters below and was to resume the search today.

Blue Lupine Fete Slated Sunday

The second annual blue lupine festival will be held on a hilltop overlooking the bay at the Community Congregational Church in Tiburon at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Guitar music by Ronald Colburn, an interpretative dance by Anne Long and poetry by Francis Warner will highlight the festival.

10 Marijuana Plants Result In Bookings

Three San Anselmo men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday after police found 10 marijuana plants growing at their residence.

Marvin Joe Shuck, 25, Charles Galbraith Carmalt, 28, and Fred Joseph St. Arnault, 19, all of 135 Redwood Road, were held on suspicion of cultivating the weed.

Shuck and St. Arnault were held in lieu of $1,000 bail each to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Carmalt, who was also booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana, dangerous drugs, narcotics paraphernalia and hypodermic needles, was held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear in court today.

Police said marijuana plants had been seen growing inside a window of the trio's residence. Armed with a search warrant, officers entered the house yesterday and found the 10 plants.

In addition they said they found two tablets suspected of being LSD, several pipes containing marijuana residue, three hypodermic needles, a plastic container of marijuana seeds, and 70 packages of cigarette papers.

Agnew Not Sure He'll Run Again

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Thursday night he is not sure whether he again will be President Nixon's running mate.

"I think I've got at least until June or July to make this decision," he said.

"The President has not consulted with me about this election. I don't encourage that kind of consultation. I've said publicly I think he should keep his options open to the very last moment, and he understands that I'll be totally supportive no matter what he decides," Agnew said.

He chided Democrats seeking the presidency.

Voting Status For CYA Housed Youths

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Attorney General Evelle J. Younger has ruled that persons 18 years of age or older committed to California Youth Authority institutions are eligible to register and vote.

Younger said Wednesday the eligibility does not include persons convicted of a felony that is both "an infamous crime" under the state constitution and "the type of felony which is punishable solely by imprisonment in state prison..."

Fire Board Set To Fund Vehicles

Directors of the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District has tentatively agreed to set aside funds in the district's 1972-73 budget for a new ambulance and a tanker.

Board President Joseph Lawrence said both items will be obtained through a lease purchase arrangement. He said the tanker is necessary because of the community's inadequate water system.

Two new directors, John L. Jones and Otto Reutinger, were seated Wednesday night, enlarging the board from three to five members.

The oceans could be monitored for tidal waves by about a dozen sensitive detectors, fays National Geographic, quoting University of Hawaii scientists.

Marin Gets $13,000 In Child Care Grant

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Social Welfare Department has given Marin and 21 other counties the go-ahead to expand child care services under the Welfare Reform Act of 1971.

Welfare Director Robert Carleson said Thursday the $17.5 million program is designed to provide current, former or potential welfare recipients with low-cost care for their children so they will be free to engage in employment, training or community work.

Marin's share of the state allocation totals about $13,000, according to Betty Presley, county director of public social services.

It will be used to generate about $63,000 in matching local and federal grants, bringing Marin's child care program budget to $76,000, she said.

The county's plan is to set up child care centers in some welfare homes which would then take care of other recipients' children.

The approach is two-pronged in that it would give some mothers work and training in child care and free others to find jobs within the community.

Other counties whose plans were approved are Butte, Del Norte, El Dorado, Fresno, Humboldt, Imperial, Los Angeles, Madera, Marin, Orange, Riverside, Sacramento, San Bernardino, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Sierra, Stanislaus, Ventura and Yolo.

Carleson said plans submitted by other counties asking to participate in the program will be approved within a week.

Field Narrows For Architect

The field of potential architects to design a new hospital has been narrowed to three and a final selection will be made at a noon meeting Wednesday, the Petaluma Hospital District board agreed last night.

District administrator Joseph E. Horner said the board agreed that enough prospective architects had been interviewed and that jaunts around the state to inspect past work had given the board ample information to make a selection.

After selection of an architectural firm, the board will choose a site for a proposed new hospital. Two offers of free land, both in East Petaluma, have been made.

Robber Gets Year In Jail

Lester Matthew Beckett, 20, of Petaluma, was placed on probation for five years and sent to jail for one year yeaterday for the robbery of Joe's Crossroads Tavern north of Novato on Sept. 27.

Beckett earlier had pleaded guilty.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court gave Beckett credit in sentencing for the time he had spent at Vacaville during a three-month evaluation period.

Beckett and two companions, aged 15 and 20, were arrested following a high-speed chase by deputies when they were seen leaving the tavern.

The 20-year-old, Douglas Richard Callahan, no known address, was sent to California Youth Authority.

Cotati Planners Approve 4-Plex

The Cotati Planning Commission last night approved plans for a fourplex on School Street, but asked for more parking spaces.

City clerk Carol Bonfigli said the commission approved the plan by Rancho Enterprises, but asked for more parking while still retaining pine trees at the rear of the property along Highway 101 and space for garbage cans.

The commission also approved an application by August Lovmark to split a parcel into four lots on Valparaiso Avenue.

Planned discussion of the city's proposed subdivision ordinance was delayed until April 27.

Sausalito Hopefuls Agree On Need Of Park Plaza Vote

By PAT ANGLE

Eleven Sausalito City Council candidates wrestled with issues of concern to their city last night and exhibited more agreement than disagreement on most items.

The candidates, who will compete for three seats in the April 11 election, answered questions and expressed views on the Park Plaza plan, ferry terminals, the quality of life in Sausalito, development, parking and city purchase of Central School.

Speaking at the event, sponsored by the Sausalito Citizens Council, were contenders Helen K. Armstrong, Robert D. Bauerle, Peter D. Bowen, Howard Chadd, Evert H. Heynneman, Robert C. Martin, W. Daniel O'Connor, Leonard F. Rappa, Sally Stanford, Robin Sweeny and Serge Trubach.

Every candidate agreed the electorate should have the chance to vote on the controversial Park Plaza plan.

Six contenders, Miss Stanford, Mrs. Sweeny, Trubach, Chadd, Bauerle and Trubach said the city could not afford to go ahead on the project at this time. O'Connor said implementation would be unfeasible until Sausalito finds a way to replace the $132,000 in annual revenues which would be lost if Municipal Parking Lot No. 1 were closed to make way for the series of parks, pedestrian malls and walkways envisioned in the Park Plaza Plan.

All candidates favored a main ferry terminal for the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferry in the northern part of the city and a small, unobtrusive whistlestop downtown.

All but Chadd favored city acquisition of Central School for a new civic center if the price were right. Chadd suggested Sausalito build its city hall and library on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad land across from the school.

The candidates also spoke generally on city government and its role in maintaining the quality of life in Sausalito and answered questions from the audience.

Miss Stanford, 68, owner of the Valhalla Inn — "We should preserve as much open space as we can afford to pay for, but we can't just reach out and grab somebody's property. This is a beautiful town and there's room for everybody. I'm not for a moratorium on people who buy their land and then are zoned out of business . . . I'm also tired of plans and planners. The council is bankrupt of creative and common sense ideas. This should be a happy town, not a town where the people are oppressed.

Heynneman, 37-year-old principal planner for the San Francisco Housing Authority and a Sausalito planning commission — "I believe restructuring the Sausalito police department is long overdue and the ultimate responsibility for this lies with the council and not the department head. If the police department has performed in a doubtful manner, it should be up to the council to reprimand the department head; if he fails to respond, he should be fired. I am absolutely opposed to the 431-unit density of the proposed Whisky Springs development and want it cut 50 per cent. The city should annex all land east of the freeway from the bridge to the heliport and provide parking structures at both the north and south ends of town, with a system of transportation into the downtown.

Bauerle, 50-year-old co-owner of Brotman's — "The council needs people who can repair Sausalito's tarnished image, so we won't have to make news because of gutter politics and a grand jury investigation. City government must control city staff and do more than give departments budgets without knowing where and for what the money is going. I think Vina del Mar Park should be opened for resident use if the residents will use it, but we can't afford to maintain a miniregional park.

Mrs. Armstrong, a 36-year-old corporate manager for Pacific Telephone — "I support enforcement of building and zoning regulations as long as the laws are detailed enough to avoid misinterpretations which lead to zoning violations. The council must insure that all citizens will be benefited by decisions made.

Bowen, 29, owner of Scrimshaw Shop — "I think Sausalito needs to upgrade its image in the parking and traffic control departments. I support the chief of police's suggestion that the city handle its own citations which would bring in more revenue. The city council should obtain funds for studies to regulate traffic flow and should also remember it doesn't govern parking lots, zones or even waterfronts; it governs people."

Chadd, 62-year-old retired independent insurance adjuster — "We are at the point where the city can't buy anything more without going into debt. We can save money by correcting the administration of city government. For example, I think we could reduce personnel in the fire and police departments by getting more efficient service. In about six years the number of city employees has grown from about 34 to 70. We deplore the number of tourists coming in, but our city budget is so tied to them that if they quit coming tomorrow, we'd be in trouble."

Martin, 54-year-old owner of the Lighthouse Restaurant — "This town has become honky-tonk in the last few years. The city needs better management. We should eliminate the high turnover in our police and fire departments and provide tax relief for our senior citizens."

O'Connor, 37-year-old engineering executive — "I support strict enforcement of ordinances, especially in the development of green belt areas. Maintenance of open space is reasonable and the public interest must prevail. I am a champion of individual rights and think anyone should have the right to develop his land if he conforms to city ordinances.

Rappa, 30-year-old attorney — "I see pressures from developers to develop our community with massive developments. I hope Wolfback Ridge (a proposed development) will be included in the new regional park district and the owner compensated for this land. If Whiskey Springs is developed, we'll see congestion like we've never seen before. I am proposing an ordinance to require developers to prove his development will provide more money in property taxes than the city will have to spend for service to annex the new residents in it."

Mrs. Sweeny, 46-year-old incumbent councilman and operating room nurse — "To take our city back to the quality of life of 20 years ago is impossible, but we should not allow what we have now to deteriorate. The more I look at Whiskey Springs (approved by the council in 1970) and the congestion from it and the ferry, the more frightened I become of the project's density.

Trubach, 60-year-old artist — "If we don't change our ideas about environment, when America dies, where will we bury it? There will be no room. The dogs are running this town and the litter from the take out food places is a real problem we haven't solved yet. We have to enforce our ordinances if we want to clean up the downtown; trash cans are not enough. It's time we thought more about the architecture in Sausalito. We are now surrounded by a halo of mediocrity, confusion and a sort of spontaneous combustion in our town's architecture."

Fiat Executive's Kidnapers Ask $1 Million School Funds Or Else

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)— Kidnapers of Fiat Company executive Oberdan Sallustro announced Friday he will be eyecuted within 48 hours unless a series of seven ransom demands, including payment of one million dollars in school supplies are met.

The demands were listed in a communique which also demanded that 50 imprisoned Argentine guerrillas be flown to Algeria.

The kidnapers said the 56-year-old Sallustro had been tried by "popular justice" on a series of charges and that "he will be executed by a firing squad unless they are met.'

Sallustro, general manager of the Fiat Company in Argentina, was kidnaped last Tuesday by the leftwing "People's Revolutionary Army" as he left his suburban home for work.

The latest communique, number four, was the first to set any demands for his release.

Other demands listed included:

Release of an unspecified number of jailed Fiat workers.

Rehiring of fired workers dismissed since Oct. 1971.

Withdrawal of police from the Fiat automobile plant in Cordoba, a north central city.

Publication by the news media of the full text of guerrillas communiques distributed so far. And any to come.

Indemnization of the ERP by Fiat of a still to be determined amount.

The communique said "the deadline (for meeting the demands) "expires next Sunday at noon".

The communique said Sallustro, an Italian national, had been found "guilty" of four charges. They said he was:

Author of monopolistic practices against the Argentine Republic by the Fiat Company.

Instigator of the repression by Argentine troops who occupied a Fiat plant in Cordoba in Oct. 1971.

Author of the unemployment and misery caused by the firing of more than 500 workers in Cordoba since Oct. 1971.

Guilty of "complicity" in the assassinations of four workers belonging to the "Peronist armed forces" by police in Cordoba.

Argentine President Alejandro Lanusse met with his top advisors Friday to review the case as speculation mounted that the family may have secretly contacted the abductors.

Dominic's Is Featuring Two Specials Throughout The Week

There are times when all of us overlook the blessings of our own backyards.

And one restaurant that is too often taken for granted is Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, whose "backyard" is the San Rafael Canal. You should visit it more frequently.

An especially good reason at the moment is its "Pacific Ocean Dinners" on Fridays and its "French Bistro Dinners" throughout the rest of the week —complete meals for $4.50. They are sumptiously and beautifully prepared.

The first generally features halibut steak Duglere, braised and simmered in white wine sauce. The acoutrements are clam chowder, green salad, vegetable and potato, dessert and beverage.

The French Bistro Dinner highlights beef brochette on Sundays, Mondays and Tuesdays. French onion soup (sometimes lentil), vegetable, dessert and beverage make up the rest. And on Wednesdays and Thursdays the entree is coq au vin.

Chef Pierre Giavina, who takes responsibility for everything that goes on the tables, has his staff give the same careful attention to these specials as for the rest of the menu. It is good food at a fair price.

Monday nights there is an additional bonus in the lounge. All regular drinks and cocktails are 50 cents. "Call drinks," of course are more.

Youngsters like Dominic's because of the canal traffic, which always affords some kind of action —especially when yachtsmen tie up their craft at Dominic's "back door" and come aboard the rear deck. The latter, by the way, is always popular in warm weather for outdoor eating and cocktailing.

It's wise on weekends to make reservations, especially if your party is four or more. If manager Mario Brenta isn't there, his aide Max Givone will assist you.

TWO ANNIVERSARIES were celebrated by one Marin restaurant last week —the historical old Mountain Home Inn on the highway up Mount Tamalpais and within yodeling distance of its peak.

Pat and Marion Vincent have checked off completion of their 20th year at the inn. During their occupancy there have been only a few changes in the main building, which first came into existence 60 years ago.

Those were the days of the crooked "figure eight" railroad up the mountain, when the inn was located next to a trestle on the line. There was no other road as we know it now and so the mountain was sparsely settled then. But the view today remains as inspiring as ever.

Pat and Marion, who are the fourth owners in the 60-year period, have been tempted from time to time by flattering offers for the property, but so far have resisted all of them. I believe that when they think they may be weakening they simply take off on one of their European trips. And they are so glad to be home when they return they vow never to sell.

Mountain Home Inn started with not much more than hot soup and lemonade for hikers on the mountain. But its founder, Claus Meyer, was a resourceful Bavarian and he soon saw the possibilities for something more. He and his wife began to serve German food and they also built the gift shop at the present road level.

The Vincents bought the property from a Scottish couple, James and Millie Drummond, who had discontinued the German food. But Marion, with a backlog of old country recipes from her mother changed it back again and that's the way it has been ever since.

For the next six months you can expect the inn to enjoy its peak patronage by hikers, tourists and "regulars" from Marin and elsewhere.

How long has it been since you took a drive to the top of the mountain. Perhaps too long, and if you are an oldtimer in the county it's time you renewed your acquaintance with this area. And if you are a more recent resident and have

"Perhaps you can decide."

"I began my career in a small London catering shop when I was only eleven. At fourteen, I entered five demanding years of apprenticeship, working in some of the fine kitchens of England — the Regent, the Strand, the Trocadero. Next came two years of more formal study . . . and then more experience in excellent American restaurants. And yet, with all of this background, I still can't tell you which is the finest dish at the Chez Pierre. There are so many! Perhaps you can decide."

DINING

never been there you have been missing a delightful bit of Marin.

THE CALENDAR CONFIRMS IT, but you really know it's spring in San Rafael when the wisteria blooms at La Petite Auberge.

This remarkable old vine, which spreads its rambling limbs clear across the dining room, is one of the restaurant's conversation pieces and never fails to fascinate newcomers.

How old is it? No one seems to be exactly sure —unless the person who planted it is still alive. Perhaps in its 60s or 70s. All I know is that when I started writing about this eating location 15 years ago (then the Red Fox) it looked just as old then as it does today.

THERE'S MORE than just a touch of Old Mexico in the newly remodeled Celia's No. 5 in San Rafael. A more attractive Mexican decor would be hard to find. M. L. Chaban Co. of San Francisco is to be congratulated on a fine job.

I particularly like the raised section in the dining room that is bordered by a wrought iron rail. It would make a nice spot for a special party. You might check with Fernando Rodrigues on this.

The bar is smaller than before but there is ample space there and in the lounge for this type of eating establishment. The food is the thing.

Both Mexican and American food is served. Prices are modest. Celia's is on Vivian Way, just off Francisco Boulevard East.

The owners are hoping to arrange for a return of Sunday mariachi entertainment very soon.

VISITORS at the Sub Hut in Northgate Industrial Park will find much more table space these days. Jeff and Vivian Snyder now have an enclosed patio for all-weather eating, boosting the capacity up to accommodate 60 persons.

Lunches and specials are served to 6 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, to 7 p.m. on Fridays and from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

AND WHILE we are on the subject of remodeling, The Galley at 402 Third Street, San Rafael, is also to be commended on its recent interior changes which include booths and are much more convenient.

And The Galley now serves wines and beers.

For Easter, dinners will feature the addition of prime rib on the menu at $4.95, which includes baked potato and tossed green salad. Prime rib may become a regular weekend feature if there are enough requests for it.

NEXT WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY NIGHTS, Rubini's in Fairfax is trying out another $4 buffet dinner, with three hot entrees. If it becomes popular you can look for it to become a regular feature. Regular menu will also be served on these nights. Buffet table is in the dining room.

Rubini's is now taking reservations for Easter dinners. Regular Sunday hours will be observed, but there will be a special menu for the day.

THE SERVING of hot hors d'oeuvres for waiting customers is a nice gesture at any restaurant. At the Grotto in San Rafael it's becoming almost a ritual. The hors d'oeuvres table is at the left end of the bar. Usually some six different tasties are available.

THE WINDJAMMER in Tiburon has a new entertainment feature for Sundays. Manager Klaus Meinberg is bringing in the Bourbon Irregulars, a Dixieland trio he discovered in San Francisco. Performance time is from about 2:45 to 5:30 p.m.

Bonding Favored For Yerba Buena

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Supervisors Finance Committee Wednesday approved financing for the Yerba Buena Center, which will commit the city to floating bonds for as much as $225 million.

The ambitious Mission District project will include a 16,000-seat arena, an 1850-car underground garage, a complex of exhibition halls and meeting rooms, and public plazas.

The supervisors acted despite threats that residents in the Yerba Buena area will go back to federal court to block the redevelopment project further.

Attorney Sidney Wolinsky, representing residents, demanded that supervisors earmark 10 per cent of the huge project for construction of new or rehabilitated low-cost housing.

Warrant Issued In Morals Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued in Marin Municipal Court for Jack Norman Isbel, 55, of San Rafael, when he failed to appear Wednesday to face a charge of child molesting.

Isbel was arrested Feb. 10 after a report to police that he had molested a 6-year-old San Rafael girl while visiting her residence earlier in the evening.

Blinder Coffee

A coffee will be held for Martin G. Blinder, candidate for San Anselmo City Council, from 2 to 3 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hulpke, 20 Oak Knoll, San Anselmo.

Computer Data Theft Argued

OAKLAND (UPI)—A man accused of stealing computer secrets has lost a court effort to have the charges dismissed.

Hugh J. Ward, 29, an employe of a Palo Alto computer firm, was charged with intercepting trade secrets and computer information from a competing firm in Oakland.

Ward's attorney filed an 18-page brief to Judge John P. Sparrow maintaining that no secrets were stolen because the information was in the public domain.

Attorney Stanley Golde said he would appeal the judge's refusal Wednesday to drop charges.

MACRAME IN TRESSES

Stylish Ancient Hairdos Revived

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

What do you do with long, straight hair when you want a fancy coiffeur for a special occasion?

Macrame it, answered Stephen Ball of an organic hair care center in Mill Valley.

"I want to bring back the old styles with braids, adding macrame," he said in an interview.

"Setting isn't good for hair," he insisted, "but a lot of women don't want to wear straight hair all the time — so I thought of macrame. I found a book in the library called 'Fashions in Hair: the First 5,000 Years' by Richard Corson, which has pages of knotted hair styles."

From these Ball has adapted his own styles, decorating them with cord, ribbon, jewelry or whatever seems appropriate. He uses no lacquer, only a flaxseed setting lotion, and since knots slip out of the hair, he works with wet leather strips. When the leather dries, it shrinks and holds the knots tight and looks like part of the hair, he explained.

So far he has developed five different styles, each with three variations. He said he has done about 50 of them, and all have been for special occasions because they are expensive — about $25. One elaborate style took three people working 40 minutes.

However, he noted, there are simpler versions that are not so costly.

Another reason they are mostly for special occasions is that they don't last more than a couple of days and thus are not comparable to the hairdos that most women count on keeping for at least a week.

A VARIATION of a 14th Century Greek hair style has been created for Cathy Prestidge by Dorothy Laird, who puts finishing touches to her work. The style consists of five braids. The two side braids, called whips, are knotted into half hitches around the center braid. The five braids are then brought together into one.

Working Women To Enjoy New Tax Break On High Expenses

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sometimes it hardly pays for a wife to work outside the home, by the time she totes up child care expenses, the cost of extra clothes, transportation, lunch at the office and the fact that her earnings might push the family into a high income bracket.

Now, Uncle Sam has changed the tax rules for benefit of working wives, widows and divorced women, who number more than 24 million according to U.S. Labor Department count.

The changes won't affect your 1971 returns, but could mean substantial savings in 1972 returns. The changes in the Internal Revenue Code permit a whole new range of deductions for the care of dependents both in and out of the home while the wage earner goes to work.

IF YOU QUALIFY under the new rules for dependents you can increase your lake home pay immediately by filing for another exemption where you work. And remember, keep detailed records of spending throughout 1972.

Outline of the new rules is contained in the current "Consumer Views", a publication of New York's First National City Bank. Its editors worked with the Internal Revenue Service in putting it together.

Just who benefits? Families with working mothers do, as do women who are heads of households, fathers raising children alone, and many working couples and individuals caring for dependent adults.

The children must be under 15, and an older dependent must be living with the family and must be physically or mentally incapable of taking care of himself. This would include an incapacitated father, mother, grandparent or other relative as well as a spouse (say an aged husband or invalid wife).

THE NEW deductions may be taken only if they enable the taxpayer to be gainfully employed.

The deductible household service expenses have not yet been spelled out in detail by the Treasury Department. But many experts say they include the salary of a housekeeper or maid, even though she does many other things around the house besides child care, the costs for a cleaning woman, a laundress and in some cases a cook.

But Consumer Views points out that wages for a gardener, chauffeur or bartender are not deductible.

How about outside-the-home expenses? These must be only for the benefit of a child under 15. Permissible deductions include charges for a day care center, group day care, nursery school, private kindergarten, after-school play group, day camp and baby sitting in someone else's home.

Not permitted are&costs of private schools from first grade up. There are limits on the amounts you may deduct. The total allowable is $400 a month, no matter how many dependents, for both inside and outside services.

There are certain deductions if incapacitated dependents 15 and over have income, so check your tax expert on how this will affect you.

FOR OUTSIDE services alone, the deductions are only for dependents under 15, and there are lower limits: $200 monthly for one dependent, $300 for two, and $400 for three or more.

A married working mother and her husband both must work fulltime during the month for which they claim the child care deduction-"fulltime" means employed for three quarters or more of the customary work week.

There is one big limit for many people in the new tax laws. Consumer Views says a married couple or a single taxpayer gets the full deduction only if adjusted gross income is under $18,000 a year. For the couple earning an adjusted gross over $27,000, there are no deductions.

A New Direction

Makers of handbags predict fashion will take a new direction for spring, with suede and smooth patent the most important materials. Although suede was not considered a spring material in the past, the tremendous demand for it has led manufacturers and retailers to project a large portion of spring sales in suede in spring colors and beige tones.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Women's News Escaping From Confinement To Few Pages

DEAR HELEN:

Our medium-sized newspaper seldom has less than five pages devoted to sports — and nine-tenths of these sports items are for and about men.

The women's section, by contrast, is a skimpy one-pager (half ads), except for the Sunday brides' insert, and a weekly two pages of school news. I understand women's page space is shrinking all over the country.

Discrimination again? — FOR EQUAL SPACE

DEAR FES:

More likely, NONdiscrimination. News and features about women are no longer considered "for women only," and so they're often spread all over the paper.

But — let's hear it from editors, who can answer your question much better than I. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 58-year-old grandmother who doesn't smoke anything.

But I think the time has come to stop wasting our tax dollars on a law that can't be enforced: We should follow the recommendation of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse and "decriminalize" marijuana.

Research shows that pot is relatively harmless (to adults) if used in moderation —probably less harmful than are cigarettes and alcohol, or at least on a par.

Even women's magazines are publishing pro-legalization articles. Officials in the Food and Drug Administration and the Mental Health Association are calling pot "not so black."

I ask my contemporaries what are the proved dangers of marijuana and they say it must be bad because it's against the law. Then I ask if they ever took a drink during prohibition. They say, "Yes, but that's different." How different?

I'm not advocating the use of marijuana or alcohol. I merely wish people to become educated on the difference between it and truly dangerous drugs. Maybe then we could have limited legalization (no sales to juveniles, no advertising, distribution only through specified agencies) and spend our efforts fighting the real and menacing traffic in hard narcotics. — MRS. A.L.

DEAR MRS. L.:

My stand on pot has always been: "Legalization if proved relatively safe." Perhaps that time has come. I don't know, nor (I suspect) do the researchers. But. . .is a government that bans cyclamates ready to take a chance oc marijuana?

Decriminalizing pot? Definitely Yes! I don't think private use should be grounds for a "bust," and it seldom is any more, as college students will tell you.

We should at least modify the law to catch up with the times. —H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

MR. AND Mrs. Clifton McCor mick of Petaluma, formerly of Novato, were honored at a dinner party at Shipwreck Pete's in Novato on Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnson of Petaluma arranged the party for the 13 guests. Entertaining during the dinner hour was Mrs. Emile Patrick, who performed Hawaiian dancing.

THE BRITISH Broadcasting Corporation's television crew did a three-day session about Mill Valley's Betty Jarboe, known as "J.J.," founder and president of the anti-women's liberation league.

During the last recording session at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco, the theme song of the organization, "Give Me a Woman a Man Can Love" by Mill Valley's John Milton Hagen, was sung by a soloist and taped. When 50 league members spontaneously joined in the chorus the television crew felt it was so effective that they recorded the incident as part of the interview.

Hagen is internationally known as a composer under the name of Sterling Sherwin.

DAVID AHLMAN of San Rafael, who is a junior at Willamette University in Salem, Ore., will study classical French art and literature at the Institute of European Studies in Nantes, France. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David O. Guimont. David, a San Rafael High School graduate, plans to return to Willamette next fall.

Food Costs Linked To Disposable Income

The cost of food represents a declining percentage of the average American's disposable income, falling from 22.2 per cent in 1950 to 16.6 per cent in 1970. During the same period, disposable income per person increased an average of 146 per cent.

Retail value of beef consumed as percentage of disposable income during period decreased from 2.7 per cent to 2.5 per cent. Pork was even more impressive, declining from 2.5 per cent to 1.4 per cent.

ON BEING BLACK

A Pimp Talks Of 'The Life'

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate

The car was new, shiny, sleek and emerald green. Parked next to my '64 heart transplant (rebuilt motor, Opel station wagon), it commanded attention.

Times have changed and status symbols have come and gone, but a new Cadillac — especially in the inner-city areas —is still openly admired. In the wealthy sections of the city, the Cadillacs of lawyers, real estate brokers and used-car dealers are accepted with little fanfare. In the ghetto, with the backdrop of low-income housing projects, wiped-out businesses and barely moving auto heaps, the "hog" stands out like a rose in the desert.

"Wanna drive it?" The owner of the car, wearing an emerald green leather jacket (matched the hog perfectly), flashed a smile and extended the keys.

"Driving it would be one thing," I laughed, "but making the notes — for you —would be something else altogether."

He smiled, causing a cleft to appear in his handsome chin. "You know me?" he asked the statement.

"No," I admitted, "but I know me."

Obviously enjoying the trend of the conversation, he smiled that infectious smile and stroked his black mustache, so striking next to his creamy brown skin.

"I see. Your momma done tol' you —watch out for pimps, prejudice and pollution. In that order!"

"Exactly!"

A conversation with Maceo the pimp, infamous soul that he is, revaled interesting observations about his profession and the society we live in.

Maceo is obviously an intelligent man. He is successful in his chosen profession — at least, he is one of the local "top dogs." ("Do you have to use that expression?" he asked good naturedly. "It's applicable and aptly descriptive, isn't it?" was my response.)

SURPRISINGLY, I learned Maceo is just a few hours away from a college degree. His conversation revealed this exposure as his vocabulary swung from a store of dictionary words to down (way down) street jargon. "I've gone to school spasmodically over the years. Every now and then I decide in my head I'm going to get out of 'the life' and become respectable. So far, the idea hasn't been worth pursuing."

"A pimp," he said, "is simply a businessman. A capitalist, if you prefer. He deals in buying and selling —for profit. He's very much like a real estate agent or a used-car dealer. Initially, they don't have the 'goods" themselves, but they know who has got them and who wants them.

"They say pimps are flesh merchants. What's new and different about that? Consider the war efforts —all over the world. Are not the perpetuators of these wars flesh merchants? Of course, they're not called pimps, but rather military elite and executive officials. War is clearly money being made at the expense of human flesh."

"What about the girls, Maceo?" I asked the standard question. "I wouldn't want to be a prostitute. I wouldn't want my daughter to be a prostitute."

"What about the girls? They do a job —a job that suits most of them very well. You already have a good paying, respectable job. Why change? As for your daughter, one thing is certain. If she decided prostitution was her thing, there would be nothing you could do to stop her. Most girls 'in the life' would be 'in the life' with or without a pimp."

"Do you beat your girls? That's an indelicate question, but a man beating a woman is far from an indelicate situation."

"I admit, sometimes it's necessary to come down kind of hard on the girls. But, again, it's expected. Some girls need and want strong pimps."

"WHY DO pimps drive Cadillacs? Why not a Mercedes or a station wagon?"

He cracked up laughing. "A station wagon! Are you kidding. A john would think he was doing business with his wife — now you know that would take the joy out of the action! A hog is, again, part of 'the life.' Just like a bus driver is expected to drive a bus, a pimp is expected to drive a hog."

"Does the general public dislike of your profession bug you? Is 'the life' worth it?"

"Unfortunately, this is the only pimp profession (people using people) that is not respectable. I get what I want. But, I'll admit it, I pay for it."

"How do you mean? With money?"

"No, case in point: You're talking to me — interviewing me, but you're not about to invite me into your home to meet your family and friends. If you could say 'Meet Maceo, he's in real estate."

Span March To Pinpoint Welfare Childrens' Needs

A group of woman and children will march across the Golden Gate Bridge tomorrow to point up attention to welfare needs of children in the Bay Area.

Sponsored by the California Welfare Rights organization in San Francisco, the marchers are expected to arrive at the Vista Point side of the bridge in Marin at 11 a.m., then march across the bridge and go by buses to the Marina Green for a rally.

Transportation to the starting point in Marin will be provided by buses, which are scheduled to carry marchers from Richmond, San Francisco and Oakland.

The rally will be addressed by the Rev. Booker T. Anderson of the Richmond City Council, Aileen Hernandez of the National Organization for Women, Ralph Abascal of Neighborhood Legal Assistance in San Francisco and Tim Sampson, professor of social work at San Francisco State College.

The rally will protest President Nixon's welfare policies that involve children and point up children's health needs.

March organizers said that a children's art festival will also be held at the Marina Green.

The march here will coincide with another similar march in Washington, D.C., Saturday.

Ross Reception After Terra Linda Wedding

St. Isabella's Church in Terra Linda was the setting for the wedding Saturday of Mary Rosenquist of San Rafael and Earl A. Soares of Larkspur.

Mary, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse W. Rosenquist of San Rafael, chose her sister, Mrs. Paul Jacobson of Oakland, as her matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Bobbette Y. Cantrell of Petaluma and Pamela S. Davis of San Francisco.

Paul Jacobson served as best man, and the guests were seated by Ben Cantrell of Petaluma and Jesse E. Rosenquist of San Rafael, the bride's brother.

A reception at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross followed the wedding.

Mary is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and attended the College of Marin. She is employed with Western Travelers Life Insurance Co. in Terra Linda. Earl is a graduate of Menlo-Atherton High School in Atherton and Stanford University. He is employed with Gene Bried, Inc., in Millbrae.

The couple will live in Larkspur.

Loin End Pork Roast Is Ideal For Two People

A loin end pork roast is perfect for two people because the leftovers can be used to make this savory spanish-style Pork.

For this quick dinner, saute a chopped onion in one tablespoon butter; add one and one-half to two cups chopped, cooked pork, one-half cup cut-up sliced salami and one-half cup beef broth.

Simmer for five minutes then add cherry tomatoes, halved and green pepper strips and simmer three to five minutes more.

Combine one-half cup dairy sour cream and one tablespoon flour; stir this into the pork mixture and heat thoroughly.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Assn. Magazines and Parent's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Bedknobs and Broomsticks" — An apprentice witch takes in three children during the 1940 blitz-krieg in England and together they search for the missing half of a spell which will help end the war. A dalightful blend of action and animation, song and dance, a fun film for everyone.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Diamonds Are Forever" — This new James Bond 007 opus is fun, with less gadgetry and more spoofing. Naughty but tongue in cheek fun.

"Hot Rock" — Set in Brooklyn, the hilarious experiences of four accident prone thieves who steal a fabulous diamond from a museum provides many laughs.

"House That Dripped Blood" — A quartet of horror tales about a house that is inhabited by various tenants, each falls prey to a bloody supernatural fate. Skillful acting creates a thoroughly chilling mood.

"Love Story" — Romantic escapism and an old fashioned simple but tragic love story. Acting exceptional, music delightful, some tasteless language mars an otherwise beautiful film.

"Mary, Queen of Scots" — A delightful way to learn history. The struggle between Mary Stuart and Queen Elizabeth who are cousins, when surrounded by corrupt men, plot to occupy the throne of England. Acting is exceptional.

"The Omega Man" — The omega man is supposed to be the last man to survive a world bacteriological war (1975), but a group of ghoulish psychotics outwit and thus outlive him.

"Tales From the Crypt" — A crypt keeper foretells the future to five people who have been lost in the catacombs while on a tour. Good cast makes horror stories highly engrossing shocker. (Boxoffice Magazine).

"They Might Be Giants" — A chaotic comic fantasy about a patient who believes he is Sherlock Holmes and his psychiatrist, Dr. Mildred Watson, who joins him in his fantasy world and follow his clues.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"French Connection" — An exciting suspense thriller about two relentless narcotics detectives trying to crack an international heroin smuggling ring. Much violence.

"Man In the Wilderness" — A dreary depiction of survival in the wilderness under the worst of conditions. A fur trapper is abandoned by his mates after being mauled by a bear. A bloody down beat tale filled with violence.

"Valdez Is Coming" — A reformed Mexican gunfighter who works as a town constable is involved in the killing of an innocent black man. He sets out to take by force what he cannot get through reason. Violence, sex scenes and language makes it unsuitable for young people.

ADULTS ONLY

"Dirty Harry" — Police thriller is an exercise in violence. A case against the pampering of criminals and justification of sadistic, illegal police techniques. Tension is excruciating and violence is shocking.

"The Godfather" — A handsome production that meticulously recreates New York in the 1940s. The gradual surrender of family affairs by the aging and unwell Italian gangster running one of the five Eastern units of the Mafia, to his sons and heirs. They have been well schooled in gang warfare as well as absolute loyalty among members of the clan. Much violence. (Motion Picture Daily).

"Goodbye Columbus" — A spoiled rich girl invites her lover to spend his vacation at her house. Elaborate preparations for her brother's wedding help to cover their ardent love making. A very frank comedy with nudity, etc.

"The Hospital" — Excellent cast makes characters so believable it could cause a person to fear becoming a patient in a big city hospital. A doctor postpones his suicide in order to investigate several deaths due to carelessness. Language is foul, mudity and sex.

"Klute" — Psychological mystery with a sordid background of brutality. Realistic picture of the life of a high-priced call girl. Very slow moving. Much profanity, nudity, sex.

"Last Picture Show" — The moral degeneration of a small Texas town is graphically shown through the eyes of an 18-year-old boy. The pattern of life seems to evolve around nudity, sex and cursing, all explicitly shown.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — A crude frontier town in 1890s with a gambling casino and brothel grows along with the boom town until big business moves in and destroys their idylic set up. Films overdose of obscene language, sex scenes and nudity is more shocking than realistic.

"Straw Dogs" — A nightmarish melodrama about an American who is confronted with raw violence in a quiet English village. Very brutal; rape, nudity.

"The Touch" — Ingmar Bergman's first film in English tells of an anguished affair between a Swedish married middle-aged woman and a neurotic, egotistical young man. Visual effects are masterful, nudity, sex.

Women's Club Under Attack

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)— Attorney Jack McManus, charging that the Dane County League of Women Voters has a "female chauvinist membership clause," has threatened a lawsuit to get men into the organization.

The clause limiting full membership to women only, McManus said, is "particularly ironic for an organization which grew out of the women's suffrage movement."

The group has been holding his check for full membership until McManus is advised whether he would like to join as an associate member. An associate member does not have voting rights.

Federal Government Admits AT&T Will Cost Millions

By PETER C. STUART
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — It's a familiar monthly visitor in 92 per cent of American households — that bill with the stylized Bell symbol and the terse line, "Please return the enclosed card and pay this amount."

This amount now threatens to jump by $10 a year, $26 a year, or even more.

Averting such increases is the consumers' wallet-size stake in the federal government's coming investigation into one of their most everyday necessities: telephone service.

The first such sweeping public audit of the near-monopolistic American Telephone & Telegraph Co. — a project as dead as a disconnected phone only a month ago — might be expected to inspire national rejoicing. But few are cheering.

Federal investigators are admittedly undermanned.

No one yet estimates when the probe will begin — or end.

The audit may not halt a proposed raise in long distance rates, nor raises in local rates pending in many states, neither is it certain to result in refunding of any past overcharges that may be uncovered.

The Federal Communications Commission's off-again, on-again investigation pits the 100 professionals in its Common Carrier Bureau against the 800,000-employeee AT&T — the largest corporation in the United States.

President Nixon wedged funds into his new budget for 20 more staffers. But FCC Chairman Dean Burch candidly admits he needs "around 50 more people to do a half way decent job."

The Pentagon — with uncharacteristic zeal for cost cutting — volunteers 3,200 of its own auditors, on behalf of all the executive agencies who together comprise AT&T's biggest customer. A series of congressional bills would earmark from $2 million to $5 millon for the project (the President asks about $800,000).

Meanwhile, the FCC, which had shelved the &nvestigation in December because of "budgetary and staffing limitations," has hired no one in the three weeks since it revived the project under public pressure. The start-up date remains unset — and even unguessed.

The investigators are setting their sights beyond Bell's pending request for a $250 million boost in long distance rates (the first since 1953). The FCC may clear this tentatively approved request anyway, although the Price Commission also must review it.

Instead, the auditors will burrow into AT&T's financial foundations: profits, internal expenses, and property holdings — particularly the ties with Western Electric Co., "Ma Bell's" manufacturing and supply "daughter."

These matters may seem as distant as a telecommunications satellite to the ordinary phone user, but they aren't.

Take Bell's request to raise its five-year-old profits ceiling ("rate of return") from 7.5 per cent to 9.5 per cent. If granted, this would boost the average consumer's phone bills by $26 a year, calculates Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., the southwestern populist.

A compromise increase to 8.25 per cent — which the FCC staff reportedly recommends after nine months of previous study — would raise phone bills about $10 a year.

Then there's the other prime target of government investigators: The "rate base," or capital overhead, behind AT&T's phone rates — everything from bookkeeping methods to the mammoth Western Electric system.

If Bell is allowed, for example, to include one-fifth too many expenses in its investment in plants and equipment, the average phone customer would pay $17 a year in higher bills, Senator Harris estimates. "Ma Bell" has won more than $1.7 billion in non-long-distance rate increases since 1968 — roughly $14 if levied evenly on each telephone. Increases worth another $1 billion (about $8 per individual phone) are pending before state regulatory agencies.

The company overcharged customers nearly $1 billion between 1955 and 1961 by underestimating its profits, alleges an anti-trust subcommittee of the House of Representatives. But even if the FCC probe confirms it, Burch says he would "think not" that overpayments could be refunded.

Few expect the government's David-like investigation to remake the nation's communication's Goliath. But if the FCC wishes, suggest knowledgeable observers, it could resort to several extreme remedies:

1. Prying away Western Electric from the Bell family.

2. Breaking off some, or all, of the 24 state and regional subsidiaries (such as New 'ork Bell, Southern Bell, Pacific Bell).

3. Nationalizing the phone system, as was done temporarily during World War I.

Most critics harbor more modest expectations. FCC Commissioner Nicholas Johnson, a longtime advocate of the probe, welcomes it with "little hope or enthusiasm." Sen. Lee Metcalf D-Montana, a watchdog of public utilities, says it "may be only a paper action."

McAfee Plans To Sell Herd

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—The San Joaquin Valley farmer who put up his property so Angela Davis could go free on bail says he plans to sell his dairy herd and go on a speaking tour of American colleges.

Rodger McAfee, 33, said Thursday he has suffered an estimated $8,000 loss since he put up title to his 405-acre farm as collateral for Miss Davis, who was released on bond Feb. 23 after 16 months of confinement.

McAfee said since he put up the bail, he has had trouble buying hay and grain for his stock and has had to go to distant markets to get feed. He said he would have to sell his 84-head dairy herd.

McAfee also said he and his wife, Darlene have applied for Communist Party membership but so far have not heard if they have been accepted.

Cash, Credit Cards Are Reported Stolen

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Try this quiz about a famous person born today:

JESUS ALOU (1943 -)Baseball star.

T F 1. Born at Haina, Dominican Republic, this Spanish-speaking sandlot hussler dreamed he would one day be playing for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

T F 2. Jesus got his chance to play in the major leagues after his two older brothers, Felipe and Matty, were signed to play for the San Francisco Giants.

T F 3. If Willie Mays had not been holding down center field, all three Alou brothers could have been in the outfield together in 1963, but they never did get the chance.

T F 3. Jesus was such a natural athlete that he set the national javelin record (214 feet) during a track meet in high school.

T F 5. The year 1970 finally saw Jesus hit his stride as a slugger at the plate, where he broke .300 for the first time in his career.

ANSWERS

1. FALSE — The birthplace is correct, but it's Matty Alou who plays for the Pirates.

2. TRUE — Jesus joined the Giants in 1963.

3. FALSE — When Willie Mays rested, Jesus got into the outfield, too.

4. FALSE — Felipe set the javelin throwing record, not Jesus.

5. TRUE — After a batting slump, Jesus finally hit .306 for the Astros in 1970.

WINNING BRIDGE

Getting From One Place To Another Is Most Vital

If you want to be a good traveler, you have to know how to get from where you are to where you want to be. Your next problem is to stay where you want to be. You encounter the same problems in your mini voyages at the bridge table, as you can see in today's hand.

SORRY OF BID

West opened the king of spades, and South won with the ace. He was sorry he hadn't bid three no-trump. East might not think of leading a spade, in which case the play for game in no-trump would be easier than at diamonds.

Since South was going to lose a spade and a trump, he couldn't afford to lose either the heart or the club finesse. The problem was how to get to dummy often enough to take two heart finesses and one club finesse.

LEADS TRUMP

South led the king of trumps first, forcing out West's ace. West took a spade trick and led another spade, whereupon South ruffed with a high trump.

South drew another round of trumps with the queen and then led the carefully preserved five of trumps to dummy's six. This was his one and only entry to dummy. He now had to find a way to stay in dummy for two heart finesses and one club finesse.

METHOD SIMPLE

The method was simple. South led the queen of hearts from dummy. East played low, and South dropped the jack from his own hand.

When this finesse worked, declarer led the ten of hearts from dummy. It would do East no good to cover, for South would take the ace of hearts and lead a heart back to dummy's nine. East therefore played low, and dummy's ten of hearts won.

Dummy retained the lead, and declarer could therefore lead a club from dummy for the third successful finesse. This assured the contract.

ANSWER: Pass.

You don't want to get into the auction unless your partner can open with a forcing bid. (And even then you're not too happy about the whole business.)

Environment Held Larkspur Key

By Jeff Greer

Three Larkspur City councilmen up for reelection last night said there are other issues besides the environment. But their four challengers and the audience practically refused to talk about anything other than planning and open space.

The candidates' night sponsored by the Larkspur Chamber of Commerce drew an audience of 150 persons. It was the largest such turnout in recent memory, according to Joan Sestak. She is now a candidate, but in previous election years was the moderator for such events.

The debates were spiced with references to the "Chinese Wall" of apartments along Corte Madera Creek, and the crowded "Hong Kong" appearance of Bon Air Hill.

Candidate Jane Epidendio, a veteran of 35 years in Larkspur business and a third-time council hopeful, charged that the city is "four areas looking for a community" — older Larkspur, Greenbrae, the fast-growing area south of Corte Madera Creek and east of Highway 101, and northern Larkspur. She said the city is "in no financial position" to impose any moratorium on development because it cannot buy the property it would keep owners from developing. Any moratorium on use must be accompanied by a moratorium on property taxes, she said.

Mrs. Epidendio said she was less opposed to more apartments than she was to new outlying shopping centers that she said threatened the wellbeing of downtown Larkspur.

Incumbent William G. Fleckles stressed his past support for moratoriums, participation in the city-county planning council, and in the city council efforts to have Larkspur selected for the Golden Gate ferry terminal. He called for creation of a redevelopment agency to encourage a regional shopping center in the Bon Air area.

Candidate Elizabeth Johnson declared she was appalled at the kind of development that has taken place."

She criticized the "Chinese Wall" of apartments both north and south of Corte Madera Creek and charged that one new high density development was in danger "of becoming a slum before anybody moves in."

She said all developers should be required to provide environmental impact studies and to prove that the increased city services demanded would not cost more than the added tax revenue from their projects.

She proposed "making deals" with developers rather than spending taxes for public open space, and urged restructuring city government to emphasize neighborhood meetings with liaison to the council.

Candidate Robert H. Lee, now planning commission chairman, repeated his earlier campaign call for the city to spend more on planning. He favored hiring a professional staff, to meet the state's Jan. 1, 1973 deadline for completion of open space and other elements for the city master plan.

He said the city "must abandon the attitude" that major property owners should have their way on development. Otherwise, he warned, the North Ridge would become "another Hong Kong" like Bon Air Hill.

Lee acknowledged that he had designed the Texaco station for the controversial Alpha Beta center on Magnolia Avenue after "I got up in 1969 and said no oil company would touch that site. It's kind of a paradoxical thing — but . . ." He said he designs all Texaco stations, and when the firm asked him to do the Larkspur job "I warned them they would have to meet every demand of the review board if I was to do the job."

Mayor Earl J. O'Grady said the top priority issues were taxes, the environment, proper development of the ferry terminal, upgrading police and fire department facilities and services, and "fair and orderly development for all of our residents."

He termed Larkspur's holding the property tax line "a splendid record when you consider what has happened to state and county taxes . . ."

O'Grady also said that he had convinced the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board that Larkspur is taking adequate steps to prevent pollution from its sewage.

Challenger Joan Sestak said, "We have a poor record of preserving our part of Marvelous Marin." Although 25 per cent of the land in the city limits is undeveloped, it all is zoned for use, she stressed. She called for putting the North Ridge and other open areas such as the San Quentin Peninsula into a study zone. She added that high density residential development probably would be better east of Highway 101, where it would not clog Larkspur streets with traffic.

"Somebody's got to decide on priorities," she declared. No outside planner "is going to come in here and save us — it's the will of the city fathers and the citizens" that must prevail, she argued.

Mrs. Sestak also called for more sales tax revenue and weighing of the public cost of development against potential revenue.

Councilman Benjamin A. Sifford Jr. proposed expansion of the city planning commission to seven members, and a city ordinance making the commission "the city's planning agency." Thus, he said, it would be responsible for updating the master plan as required by the state. He said that "pretty colored maps. . . must be backed up by precise zoning ordinances" to prevent developers' and citizens' arguments over "broad brush" vague zoning restrictions.

He warned that "if the city's planning function is separated into the staff, the commission and the council, it's going to fall into the cracks — that's why I want one agency responsible."

O'Grady, Fleckles and Sifford challenged Lee's claim that not enough is being spent on planning. "We've budgeted $50,000" for planning including current general plan reviews by an outside consultant, the mayor said.

Lee described how Petaluma controls growth with a limit of 500 housing units a year and "a one-month open season" in which all developers submit plans and the city decides which ones deserve to be permitted.

"I am violently opposed to such procedure," Sifford reacted. "It's shot through with potential for graft and just plain petty politics."

An audience member asked Fleckles his stand on a regional park district. The councilman said he believed Southern Marin communities would have to acquire the North Ridge property through a general obligation bond issue because the land might cost $2 million. He noted that County Administrator John F. Barrows had proposed the county budget $300,000 annually for six years for open space, but termed that "a drop in the bucket" in terms of open space needs.

Another questioner asked Lee how the state planning deadlines can be met. "I'm flattered by Mr. Sifford's confidence" in the planning commission, Lee replied, "but we simply cannot handle the functions of a professional planning department." After a long meeting on hearings and other business, "we all get a little bit sleepy and we don't have any time left for planning," Lee declared. The council should "forget your new fire engine . . . and bring in a professional planner. We've only got nine months . . ." Lee added.

Fleckles pointed out that "in the last five years, all of us have changed our awareness" of environmental issues. The city's master plan adopted seven years ago was the result of extensive citizen discussion and recommendations, he said.

Mrs. Johnson criticized that "each time 100 or 200 people" attend a city meeting "we end up with a new Tamalpais (high rise retirement home) or a new set of apartment buildings."

"Hindsight is always better," Mrs. Sestak remarked. "The question of zoning is 'is it the best possible use' for the land involved." She said Larkspur officials had sometimes ignored the question.

Sweden Critical Of Asia Policy

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Sweden accused the United States today of escalating the war in Vietnam. It said the Vietnamization policy "is apt to prolong the war, not shorten it."

The government, in a foreign policy statement to the Riksdag (parliament), said "the prospects of peace still appear to be small. The Vietnamization policy is apt to prolong the war, not shorten it.

"In Vietnam the major part of the American ground forces have been withdrawn but at the same time the bombing over the whole of Indochina has been intensified. These bomb raids severely afflict a poor civilian population."

RISING TIDE OF TROUBLE

More Bicyclists, Less Safety

TROUBLESOME HANDFUL — While it's not illegal, 10-year-old Timothy Matthies of San Rafael demonstrates that riding with an armful of groceries could pose more than a handful of trouble in the event of a cycling emergency. Bicycle accidents are up in Marin and Southern Sonoma, and police are concerned. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

By DAVID DIETZ

A youth is riding his bicycle on Novato Boulevard when the front wheel begins to vibrate. Control is lost, and the youth crashes to the pavement. Result: the cyclist is hospitalized with a fractured skull.

In Tamalpais Valley, a car and bicycle collide in darkness, sending the young cyclist to the hsoptial with a possible concussion and cuts. The California Highway Patrol finds soon after arriving at the scene that the crumpled bicycle had no headlight.

Two Central Marin cyclists are injured on separate occasions when motorists either inexplicably cut them off or fail to yield the right of way.

Such accounts of misery on the highway, drawn from police reports in the last three weeks, are not new to the public eye. But they are beginning to appear with increasing frequency in the grim statistical records of law officers in Marin and Southern Sonoma.

Together with a widely acknowledged theft problem, the bicycle boom of the last several years has brought injury and death to many riders. As the bicycle becomes as much a means of everyday transportation as it is a casual recreational tool, the number of highway accidents mounts.

Statistics are incomplete, but injuries to bicyclists, most of them youths, appear to have jumped about five-fold in Marin and Southern Sonoma in the past three years. Sausalito police, for instance, reported one bicyclist injured in 1969, but six last year. Twenty riders were hurt in Novato in 1971, up from 10 a year earlier. San Rafael police said 47 bicyclists were injured last year — highest toll in Marin and Southern Sonoma cities — but didn't have figures for previous years.

Statewide, in the latest figures available, the California Highway Patrol said that 89 bicyclists died in accidents in 1970, up 45 per cent in a year. Meanwhile, the total number of fatal motor vehicle accidents dropped more than 3 per cent in the same period, the patrol said.

The figures have brought increased overall attention by law enforcement to bike safety, although several local police agencies have been emphasizing it through instructional and bike registration programs for years. At many police stations today, riders young and old may find a deluge of literature on the subject, geared both to riding habits and the mechanical condition of a bike.

Out on the road, the message is caution — a citation may penalize one for carelessness.

Keith Chapman, education and information officer at the highway patrol office in Corte Madera, believed the major problem is a lack of awareness by bike riders that they must obey the same basic rules as an auto — heeding stop lights and signs, yielding to pedestrians, maintaining a safe speed, etc.

Chapman, who regularly conducts safety lectures at schools in the unincorporated area of Marin, said student bicycles passing a 13-point safety check from now on will be affixed with a special seal of approval provided with county funds. Until now, vehicle safety stamps had been used.

"Most of the bikes on the road are safe," said John W. Jaeger, Belvedere police chief, "it's the way they operate them that's outrageous."

Speed is seen as a prime cause of accidents by Scott Nelson, San Rafael police officer. Most of the bicycle mishaps in that city last year involved 10-14 year olds, he said.

Nelson said cyclists cited for riding violations or mechanical defects are summoned to the San Rafael police station for a lecture and testing. In the case of young people, parents come, too, he said, many times faring worse on the test than their children.

Some of the laws governing bicycles are:

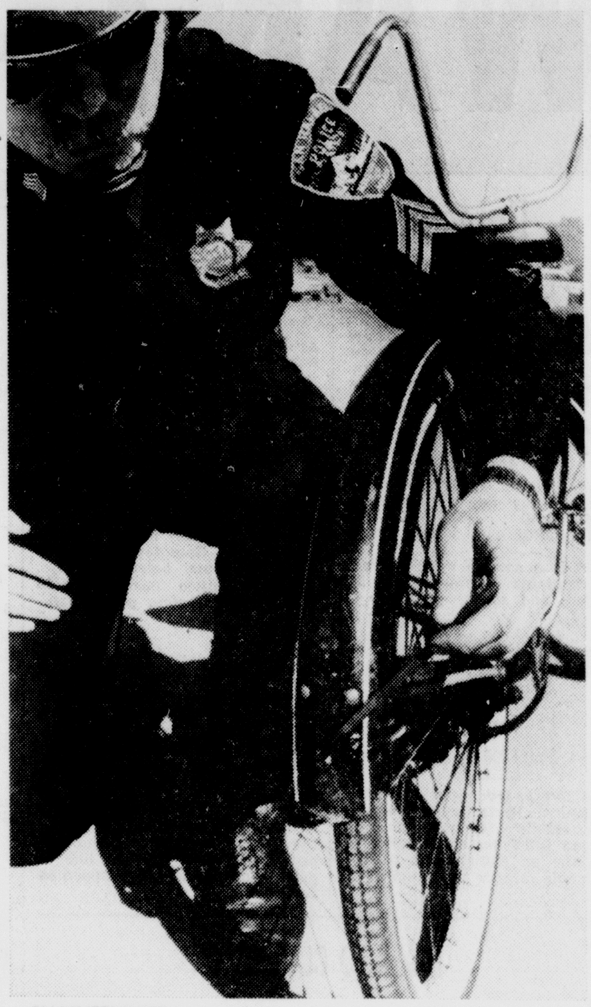
1. Handlebars must enable a grip lower than rider's shoulders.

2. Nighttime riding requires a front light and rear reflector.

3. Riders must operate their bikes as close to the right hand side of the road as possible.

4. At least one hand must be on the handlebars.

In addition to the laws, covered in the California Vehicle Code, cyclists are advised to have secure and complete pedals, fenders, chain guard and a mirror.



FAULTY BIKE — Sgt. Henry Ingwersen of the San Rafael police points to the absence of a rear reflector on a lost bicycle impounded at the city corporation yard. A reflector is mandatory for night riding, as is a front light.

Two Booked In Probe Of Accident

Two San Rafael men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday after they attempted to avoid questioning in connection with a San Rafael traffic accident.

Jesse H. Chidester, 23, of 15 La Brea Way, was booked on suspicion of hit-and-run. Gerald A. Beaudoin, of the same address, was booked on suspicion of interfering with a police officer and making a false report to police.

The two were on a Honda motorcycle involved in an accident with a car driven by David T. Case, 47, of Joseph, Ore., at about 2:40 p.m. yesterday on Canal Street near Medway Road.

Details of the accident were unavailable today, but Chidester apparently fled the scene. When police arrived, Beaudoin told them that he did not know the driver.

Police later went to the Bermuda Palms Motel after a report that Chidester was there, but they learned there that Beaudoin had taken Chidester to Marin General Hospital.

Both men were found at the hospital, officers said, where Chidester was being treated for a cut left leg and multiple scrapes, and where both were arrested. They were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Boating Volunteers Seat New Officers

Julian M. Edwards of Kentfield has been named commander of the Marin Power Squadron replacing Robert M. Hensen of San Rafael.

Also installed during ceremonies earlier this month were Richard G. McDonald of San Rafael, lieutenant commander-executive officer; Jack E. Diefendorf of Novato, lieutenant commander-administration; Richard E. Hoefert of Greenbrae, secretary; and Kenneth S. Loomer of San Rafael, treasurer.

Layne Search Turns To L.A.

Although an important witness in the Angela Davis case, former bailiff James Layne, had still not been located today, authorities said they believe he is in Los Angeles County.

Prosecutor Albert W. Harris said his investigators had been given two different addresses there to check out and he expected Layne would soon be found.

Layne, about 30, was acting as bailiff in the late Judge Harold J. Haley's courtroom on Aug. 7, 1970, when a kidnap-escape attempt ended in the death of the judge, two convicts and a young accomplice.

Layne is expected to testify at the Davis trial that the young man who brought weapons into the courtroom, Jonathan Jackson, also visited the same trial the day before and asked Layne numerous questions about the case.

(Layne did not tell his story to the grand jury which indicted Miss Davis and convict Ruchell Magee but made remarks to reporters in an interview after the shoot-out.)

Marin authorities earlier had asked the Department of Motor Vehicles to notify them if Layne took out a new driver's license or gave a new address in connection with car license plates. They said this procedure is common in attempts to locate missing persons in civil matters.

Layne left the Marin Sheriff's Department last year, some months after the shoot-out. He reportedly went first to Oregon and later to Los Angeles.

Many other witnesses also have moved during the 17 months since the shoot-out, prosecutor Harris said today. He said he does not think his men will run into real trouble in finding the missing witnesses, but that it is taking time because some persons had not left forwarding addresses.

He is expected to put more than 100 persons on the stand in an effort to prove charges of murder, kidnap and conspiracy against Miss Davis, whose trial is due to start Monday in San Jose.

BART Opposes So. Crossing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The board of directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District was on record today as opposing a Southern Crossing of San Francisco Bay until BART has had "a fair trial."

Thursday's vote was 8-2.

The matter of whether bay area residents favor construction of another bridge will be on the ballot June 6.

The vote came after the board heard arguments against the bridge by Fred H. Smith, spokesman for a conservationist group opposed to its construction.

He said such a span would increase air pollution by inducing more vehicles to cross the bay and would also reduce BART patronage by "at least 4 per cent, which would amount to a $500,000 annual loss of revenue and the possible failure of BART."

Fund-Raiser Sunday

A fund-raiser will be held Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the William Torrance home on Upper Scenic for Fairfax city council candidate Adelaide P. Wilson. There will be music, food and a shuttle service from the Pavilion parking lot.

Minorities Contract Proposal Defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill designed to give small contractors employing minority group members at 5 per cent break when bidding on contracts with cities and counties has been defeated by the Assembly.

The author of the measure, Assemblywoman Yvonne Brathwaite, D-Los Angeles, kept the bill alive, however, by asking to have the 31-31 vote Wednesday to be reconsidered. The measure needed 41 votes for approval.

Old Barracks Burns In Airfield Practice

Firemen filming a training sequence at Hamilton Air Force base last night burned a World War II barracks near Highway 101.

According to Howard M. Larman, base fire chief, small controlled burns were conducted on the 8,000-square-foot wood frame barracks building until about 10:30 p.m., when it was burned to the ground.

About 35 firemen from Terra Linda — shooting a video tape of the tehcniques — Marinwood and Kentfield took part in the exercise.

Larman said six buildings on the base would be burned down, in training for county fire departments. Last night's was the second of the series.

A former barracks building located behind the base hospital, the burned structure had been used as hospital office space until last November when it was vacated.

Larman said firemen from Mill Valley, Alto and Tiburon were at the base today practicing search and resue and basic firemanship in another of the old buildings.

Stinson Water Board Is Seeking Costs On Land

The Stinson Beach County Water District board is seeking land values for the site of its proposed sewer plant.

According to Director John L. Jones, the board told Deputy County Counsel George C. Silvestri to get an appraisal of a 48-acre parcel the district would like to buy from George P. Leonard for a treatment plant on an aerating lagoon.

The board was told by a representative of the Farmers Home Association its proposed system seemed to qualify for an association loan.

The board also decided to ask the county planning commission to postpone a use permit hearing next Monday involving Leonard, who wants to continue operation of a redrock quarry south of the water district's boundary, near the proposed site. Board members want the extension to determine if quarry operation would affect the plant.

The board also set a meeting today with county and state sanitation and water quality control boards on the legality of their plans. The board will meet with citizens' environmental groups April 8, for a general information session.

$8,500 Damage In House Fire

A fire last night in a San Rafael house furnished only with a waterbed caused $8,500 damage, according to the city fire department.

Reported at 10:07 by a neighbor of the house at 282 Union Street, the fire apparently started in the closet of the northeast bedroom, causing heavy damage to the closet and bedroom and heat and smoke damage to the whole interior, firemen said.

The county tax assessor's office said the house is jointly owned by Mariellen Dickinson, M. G. Stevenson and Jerry Stevenson, all of San Rafael.

The fire department said no one was home at the time.

Bazzoli Hospital Condition Improves

Robert J. Bazzoli, 18, of 1736 Gilrix Street, Petaluma, was reported as improving at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital although in poor condition.

Bazzoli had been listed in critical condition yesterday with a broken neck suffered in a two-car accident ednesday on Highway 101 near Cotati.

Alioto Plans To Host Humphrey

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) —Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco plans to fly home tonight to play host to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., then fly back here Saturday for the last arguments in a $2.3 million civil lawsuit against him.

Alioto tried Thursday to persuade Superior Court Judge Stanley C. Soderland to call a regular weekend recess in the six-month-old trial.

Soderland refused and said the arguments would continue until the case goes to the jury of six men and six women.

Sanitary Board Revises Sewage Treatment Plans

The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District has revised proposed standards for the district which the district's board feels it "can work with."

The standards will be considered for adoption by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control board Tuesday.

The standards set higher purity requirements for treated sewage pumped into the bay and were worked out in meetings between sanitary district and water quality control staff during the past month.

Satisfaction is not total, district board secretary Lelia O'Kane said, but "we feel they are acceptable and we can live with them."

The board last night also approved an agreement with James R. Erickson calling for the district to take over maintenance of a sewer line Erickson will construct to an 11-lot subdivision on Las Gallinas Avenue near Ninestone Court in Marinwood, she said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

We All Live In Two Worlds: One When Awake, One Asleep

All of us live in two worlds: one when awake and the other when asleep. The world of dreams is as fantastic as that of our waking hours even though most of us forget what we "saw and did" after awaking at dawn. Our knowledge about life when asleep has increased tremendously. And in the laboratory, it is possible to determine when a person is in deep sleep and when he is dreaming.

The latter is known as REM sleep, because at this time there are rapid eye movements. It is as though the dreamer's eyeballs were scanning his dream world. This is determined through the use of delicate electronic devices that are attached in a circle around the eye. They are so lightweight that the person being tested does not know they are attached. A person awakened during REM or paradoxical sleep periods, is able to describe his dream. Furthermore, if he writes it down, he will recall the experience in the morning.

ON FALLING asleep, the person usually slips into the orthodox phase of sleep for approximately 70 minutes. This is followed by a dream (REM sleep) lasting up to five minutes. After this comes a second cycle of 110 minutes of orthodox sleep which is terminated by another REM period. These cycles continue until morning.

The world of drams is most intriguing. What prevents most people from dreaming while awake? Persons with mental disorders do this and the dreams are called hallucinations. And of more interest is that 50 per cent of the sleep time of a newborn human baby is occupied by REM sleep. Newborn babies sleep 16 to 18 hours a day. What can they be dreaming about? Furthermore, we have every reason to believe that dreams also take place before birth.

BRAIN WAVE studies reveal that in children and adults orthodox sleep takes up at least 75 per cent of the night. Recent investigations tend to refute our statement that dreams occur only during REM periods. People awakened during orthodox sleep often recall simple dreams. This is in contrast to the more intensive and complex dreams that ensue during REM slumber. This theory cannot be confirmed with any of the sophisticated equipment used in "sleep laboratories."

DRINKING DOLLARS

E. H. writes: What danger is done to a man's body by drinking $30 to $40 worth of whisky epery Saturday?

REPLY

Plenty, but the amount of money spent on liquor is no criterion of the damage done unless he buys booze by the case and sits home alone drinking it all. Thirty or $40 does not last long at a bar if the drinker passes out $10 tips and buys a few rounds for the house.

ITCHING AND DIABETES

D. D. writes: What can be done for itching due to diabetes?

REPLY

The itchiness usually vanishes when the diabetes is under control. Meanwhile, use a soothing product, such as calamine lotion, or a salve containing an antihistamine or a steroid.

TONSILS AND VOICE

P. K. writes: Do you know of any popular singers who have had the tonsils and adenoids removed? I hear this changes the voice.

REPLY

EXERCISE AND HYPERTENSION

F. A. writes: Is it harmful for a person with high blood pressure to exercise?

REPLY

No, provided exercise is moderate, and does not produce shortness of breath or chest pain.

NASAL TWANG

S. J. writes: What can be done about a nasal twang I have developed due to a polyp in the nose?

REPLY

Have the growth removed. Nasal polyps often recur, especially when they stem from an allergy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease.

Nader Studying Mobile Homes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader's Center for Auto Safety reports it has received 500 complaints about mobile homes and is conducting a preliminary investigation of the $3 billion-a-year industry.

A spokesman said no decision has been made on whether to issue a report on the situation or to continue the investigation.

He said most of the complaints involved workmanship and safety defects, and the investigators were concentrating on the large-size mobile homes which are generally towed to a site and placed on a fixed foundation.

Terra Linda Streak Alive

Terra Linda High School's baseball team exploded for nine runs in the fourth inning to vanquish Oakland Tech yesterday, 11-8, at Albert Park in San Rafael, for its fifth straight victory.

In other non-league games involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Novato shaded visiting Santa Rosa, 2-1, on a passed ball in the seventh inning; and San Marin gained a 5-2 revenge victory over Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park in a tournament in Healdsburg.

Terra Linda's Steve Withers lined three singles, giving him five hits in his last six at-bats, and drove home four runs, including two on a single in the fourth-inning outburst.

Other big blows in the rally included a two-run single by pinch-batter Guy Rodriguez and successive run-scoring singles by Nick Mattos, John Loberg and Paul Berry.

Novato's Bill Busher drove in the Hornets' first run with a single and scored the second on a bases-loaded passed ball. His one-baser in the first inning scored Tom Conklin, who had singled and moved to second on an error.

Novato senior Marty Moroski, pitching for the first time since his sophomore year following a broken hand last year and a broken foot earlier this season, allowed just four hits and one unearned run in an impressive debut.

The victory, however, went to relief pitcher Mike Lamb, now 5-0 for the year. Lamb struck out six in three innings, allowing no hits.

San Marin pitcher Greg Mazeres went the distance, striking out seven, and singled home the Mustangs' first run in the first inning. The other runs came in on a two-run single by Marty Larsen, a groundout by George Hoberg and a single by Ed LaRocque. The Mustang triumph avenged a 2-1 defeat Tuesday in non-tournament play.

Rancho Cotate scored in the fifth inning as Frank Garrett doubled and later scored on a muffed pickoff attempt at third base. Lou Goring's single in the sixth brought home Marshall Brant, who had tripled.

San Marin will continue tournament play tomorrow at 5 p.m. against Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, and will conclude play Monday.

Doubles Victory For Sharon

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael was victorious in her doubles match Wednesday as the United States team swept past The Netherlands, 3-0, and moved into the semi-finals of the World Federation Cup tennis tournament in Johannesburg, South Africa.

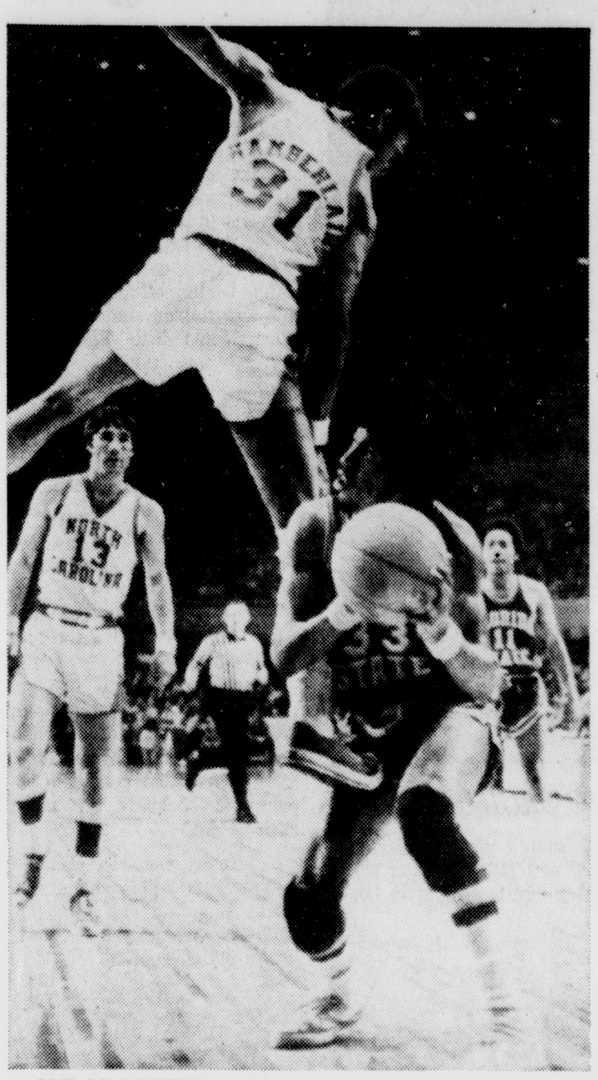
The U.S.8team was scheduled to meet South Africa, a surprise 2-1 victor over France in another quarter-final match.

Miss Walsh teamed with Val Ziegenfuss of San Diego to defeat Trudy Walhof-Groenwald and Marjike Schaar-Hansen of The Netherlands, 8-6, 6-3. In singles, Miss Ziegenfuss defeated Miss Schaar-Hansen, 6-3, 5-7, and Linda Tuero of Metairie, La., downed Miss Walhof-Groenwald, 3-6, 6-1, 9-7.

Francoise Durr of France defeated Pat Pretorius of South Africa as expected in the singles, but South Africa's Brenda Kirk topped Gail Chanfreau in the other singles, 6-4, 0-6, 6-2, and the Pretorius-Kirk doubles combination prevailed over Durr-Chanfreau, 6-3, 6-4.

In another quarter-final, Great Britain defeated West Germany, 2-1, as Winnie Shaw won a singles match against Heidi Orth, 6-0, 6-1, and Virginia Wade won the other singles over Helga Masthoff, 6-2, 6-1. The Orth-Masthoff doubles team beat Shaw-Wade, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

UCLA Crushes Louisville



OUT OF POSITION — Florida State's Ron King (33) faked leaping North Carolina University foe Bill Chamberlain (31) under the Florida basket in the second half last night in Los Angeles. Chamberlain landed on King and drew a foul. Florida State upset North Carolina 79-75. (UPI Telephoto)

North Carolina Upset By Florida State '5'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bill Walton, UCLA's jolly red giant, and his young teammates will play for the Bruins' sixth straight National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball title, as expected, Saturday. But the opponent will be Florida State and not North Carolina.

The eight-point underdog Seminoles provided the only surprise of the NCAA semifinals last night, knocking off No. 2-ranked North Carolina 79-75 before Walton devastated Louisville 96-77.

So it will be UCLA—the No. 1-rated team in the country and undefeated in 29 games—against No. 10 Florida State for the championship Saturday at 2 p.m. PST on national television.

"I think this is the best UCLA team ever," said Louisville coach Denny Crum, a man who should know. Crum helped recruit the ingredients for the Walton Gang, including the red-haired sophomore himself, as UCLA coach John Wooden's chief assistant for three years before taking the Kentucky post this season.

"Bill Walton is just amazing," Crum continued. "He creates so many problems. The only way to beat UCLA is to keep Walton from getting the ball and there's really no way to do it—at least with our personnel."

The 6-foot-11 Walton, winner of the Naismith Award as college basketball's player of the year, scored 33 points and collected 21 rebounds. He had 24 of his points and 16 of his rebounds in the opening half as UCLA built up an eight-point advantage.

Larry Farmer added 15 points, all in the second half, for the Bruins while sophomores Keith Wilkes and Greg Lee finished with 12 and 10, respectively.

Jim Price kept Louisville in the game with 30 points.

"We played better in the second half and I was satisfied with our defense."

Wooden refused to compare Walton with Lew Alcindor, who brought the Bruins three of their seven national titles in the last eight years.

"I was always very pleased with Lewis and I'm equally pleased with Walton," he said.

It was supposed to be UCLA and North Carolina in a rematch of the 1968 finalists. But Ron King and pint-sized floor leader Otto Pett put the Seminoles there instead of the Tar Heels.

King had 22 points and the 5-7 Petty came off the bench to direct the Tallahassee speedsters' attack, ending up with 10 points.

Florida State, which came into the final round of four with five losses against 26 wins, had to hold off a furious second half North Carolina rally, though. The Seminoles padded a 13-point halftime lead to 23—59-36—with six minutes gone in the second half.

McAdoo had 24 points and Dennis Wuycik added 20, 15 of them in the second half, for North Carolina.

The Tar Heels and Cardinals tangle for third place Saturday at 12:10 p.m.

McLain Bombed By Padres

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI)—The Oakland A's concluded a four-game road trip against the "hometown" San Diego Padres today and then manager Dick Williams was expected to make his first cuts of the spring.

Righthander Denny McLain won't be among those cut but if his performances remained the same and his name was Art Smith, he might be cut loose.

McLain hasn't impressed anyone this spring since coming to the A's from the Texas Rangers, least of all the San Diego Padres. San Diego jumped on Denny for five runs in the fifth inning Thursday for an 8-3 win.

The Padres shelled McLain for 14 hits and seven runs to run their record to a surprising 14-2 for the spring.

In the big inning, Jerry Morales led off with a homer and pitcher Tom Phoebus finished things with a two-run double. Phoebus allowed three runs and seven hits in six innings to gain the victory.

The loss to the Padres snapped a four-game win streak for the Athletics.

Marin Rifle Team Shot Down By Ukiah

The Marin Rifle and Pistol Club was defeated by the Ukiah Rod and Gun Club last Friday, 979-957, in a match held at the Cotati range. Ken Cumming of Ukiah led all shooters with a score of 198, while Clint Dahlstrom led Marin with 196.

NFL ACTS

Change In Rules To Aid Offense

HONOLULU (UPI) —Offensive specialists were smiling today as the National Football League moved into its final day of its annual meeting, having passed several rule changes which will burden the defense.

The big change came after Thursday morning's session when the owners, by a 25-1 vote, decided to move the hash marks closer to the center of the playing field, cutting off the use of the sideline as an extra defensive "player."

Two other changes to help the offensive team came during the afternoon session. The penalty for a pass receiver going out of bounds and coming back was changed from a 15-yard penalty and loss of down to just the loss of down. In addition, punts will be allowed to be run out of the end zone.

Another rule change, the result of the feeling that much of this infraction was unintentional, reduced tackling by the face mask from a 15-yard penalty and automatic first down to a five-yard penalty and an automatic first down. But the owners decided to have the officials make the judgment that if the infraction was flagrant, to penalize the violating team 15 yards and award in automatic first down to the other club.

Commissiioner Pete Rozelle said there was "strong support" for a sudden death period for all tie games and the two-point conversion, both of which fell short of the 20 votes needed for passage. However, Rozelle said more than 20 of the clubs were in favor of a change, but couldn't muster enough votes for either change.

Along with the hash marks being moved in, the league decided to standardize the yard markers in all stadiums. Prior to this change, clubs had yard markers of varying sizes at differing distances from the sidelines. According to Mark Duncan, personnel director for the NFL and head of officials, "A lot of teams had marked the field to key their (defensive) zones."

The yard markers will now all be six feet long, the top of which will be one yard outside of the hash marks.

According to Norm Van Brocklin, coach of the Atlanta Falcons and one of the alltime great quarterbacks, the moving of the hash marks in toward the center of the field was "a definite advantage for the offense."

"It widens the throwing lanes, and gives the field goal kicker an advantage in that he has a straight shot," the Dutchman said. The hash marks, which were 20 yards in from the sidelines under the old rule, would now be 23 and 1-2 yards in from the out-of-bounds lines. The space in between, 18 feet 6 inches, would be the same width as the goal posts. Any play that ends outside of the hash marks would bring the ball back towards the center of the field, 23 and 1-2 yards from the nearest sideline.

"Under present conditions, the defense considered the sideline as an extra man," said Duncan. Rozelle said this would make "third down plays more meaningful."

"There will be no wasted plays," he said.

Under the old rule, when a team neared field goal range, it would try to run a play toward the center of the field on third down for a better angle for its field goal kicker. But under the new rule, the offensive team wouldn't have to worry about running towards the center of the field for a better angle and concentrate on either getting a first down or a touchdown.

Today's session was expected to cover amendments to the constitution, including waiver and player limits and extending or shortening the inter-conference trading period. Discussion would also center on the Chicago All-Star Game, the contract for which expires after the 20th meeting between the Dallas Cowboys and the College All Stars July 28.

Owners' Pension View Set

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI)—Representatives of the major league clubowners were expected to throw a "take it or leave it" offer on the table today when they meet here with the executive director of the Players Association on the issue of additional benefits to the players' pension fund.

The result could be a strike by the players when their current contract with the owners runs out on March 31. The players have voted overwhelmingly for the strike if their demands are not granted while the owners have voted unanimously not to increase the money they put into the pension requested by the players.

John Gaherin, the counsel for the owners, National League president Charles Feeney and American League president Joe Cronin will meet with Marvin Miller, the executive director of the Players Association.

Warriors Invade Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) —Golden State plays the Atlanta Hawks in a battle of two National Basketball Association playoff-bound teams tonight but the Warriors thoughts will be of Milwaukee.

"We've played a whole season with six or seven men and they are worn out," said Warriors coach Al Attles. "The idea is to get them some rest but not let them lose their sharpness. Play them 20 minutes or so."

Which means guys like Bob Portman, Bill Turner, Fritz Williams, Nick Jones, Vic Bartolome and Odis Allison will see a lot of action.

Attles said Clyde Lee has a cold and Cazzie Russell is still bothered by a sore back, so both will sit this one out.

Regarding Golden State's 20-point win over Baltimore to clinch a playoff spot Wednesday night, Attles said, "we can play a lot better."

"Yes, we're capable of beating the Bucks," he added.

Golden State and Milwaukee open their playoff at Milwaukee Tuesday. But before that, the Warriors must play the 76ers in Philadelphia Sunday to close out the regular season.

Giant Problem Areas In Focus Vs. Lotte

HONOLULU (UPI)—Question marks at catcher, third base and first base should be answered during the current three-game stint of the Giants try to halt the Lotte Orions of Tokyo who own a 2-0-1 record against San Francisco this spring.

Right now, the Giants have Dick Dietz, Dave Rader, Russ Gibson and Fran Healy around as catcher and manager Charlie Fox says he will open the season with three catchers on the roster. Rader has practically cinched a spot as a lefthand batting receiver.

There's been persistent talk that the Giants have been trying to trade Dietz but can receive no comparable talent in return.

Tall Dave Kingman apparently has learned how to handle ground balls around third base but doubts still linger as to whether he can consistently handle big-league pitching. Alan Gallagher still does not believe he has lost the third-base position to Kingman.

First baseman Willie McCovey is having a slow recovery from his scarred knees and Fox must keep in mind a possible replacement for Big Mac should the need arise.

Police, San Marin Tie In Donkey Cage

Novato Police and San Marin High students rode to a 24-24 tie in a benefit donkey basketball game at San Marin High School Wednesday night.

Half of the proceeds, estimated at $800, were to be split between the Novato Police Association and a scholarship fund for San Marin and Novato High School students.

HENRY TOPS KEGLER RECORD WITH 810

Marin County's two-year-old series bowling mark has fallen.

San Rafael's Ed Henry rolled an 810 series Wednesday to topple Terry DeYoung's 783 feat at Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

Heny, a 30-year-old plumber, rolled a 248, 265 and 297 enroute to the record. This was his second 297.

"I've never bowled a 300 game, but this (the series) has got to be my biggest thrill," Henry enthused.

"From the start," he continued, "I knew I was going well, but I never dreamed. . ."

While compiling the 24th highest score in the nation this year, Henry, sporting a 213 average this annum, was paced by his 72-year-old father, Ted. "He shot a 255 in the third game right ahead of me. That was some incentive."

With his father looking on, Henry, who is coached by San Francisco tour veteran Les Barrett, rolled 11 strikes in a row before hooking the last ball, thus leaving the 4-7-9 combination.

After wiping out DeYoung's record, Henry began reassessing his bowling future. "I've been bowling seriously since I was 18 when I joined the Western Bowlers Association. I've always wanted to go on the pro tour. I just might try at the Las Vegas, Saratoga and Los Angeles stops next year."

Skyline Tops Marin Tars In Baseball

Skyline College of San Bruno pulled ahead with two runs in the sixth inning and clinched the game with four more in the eighth as it defeated the College of Marin, 10-4, in a Camino Norte Conference baseball clash yesterday in Kentfield.

The invading Trojans got to Marin reliever Richard Jensen for three hits and a wild pitch in the sixth, and combined two hits, a walk, a hit batsman, an error and a passed ball in the eighth.

Marin, 3-4 in the league, takes a break from CNC action next week to play in the Diablo Valley College tournament in Pleasant Hill. The Tars meet host DVC at 10 a.m. Monday.

Nicklaus Ties For Lead

TONGUE BITE — Napa's Ron Cerrudo bit his tongue and lifted the golf ball out of the rough along the sixth fairway yesterday in the opening round of the Greater New Orleans Open. Cerrudo carded a 70 and was four strokes behind leaders Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Mason Rudolph, Bob Payne and Bunky Henry. (UPI Telephoto)

Casper, 3 Others Fire 66s

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, already the terror of the tour, has quit smoking—a step he takes only when he's really pointing for a tournament.

The tournament that Nicklaus has in his sights is the Masters next month. But he's trying to put it all together in the $125,000 Greater New Orleans Open this week.

He entered the second round today in a five-way tie for the lead after shooting a six-under par 66 Thursday despite making only one good putt—a 40-footer —during the round. He's tied with Billy Casper, Mason Rudolph, Bob Payne and Bunky Henry, over the 7,080-yard Lakewood Country Club course.

Seven players were tied one stroke back and three more had 68s. Deadlocked at 67 were Terry Wilcox, Larry Ziegler, Dave Eichelberger, Billy Ziobro, Ralph Johnson, Jim Colbert and John Schroeder.

Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 70, including a hot 33 for the back nine holes.

Defending champion Frank Beard had an even-par 72 and Gary Player had a 73.

Nicklaus, who already this year is off to the greatest start of any golfer in history, birdied four straight holes on the front nine and two in succession on

Ducks Unlimited— More Than Hunters

By AL GIDDINGS

Here's a letter I recently received from Kurt R. Toohey, Chairman of the San Francisco Area of Ducks Unlimited. It's not only important to duck hunters, but to everyone interested in sound conservation.

Dear Al,

It has been suggested that due to your interest in duck hunting, conservation, and your advocation of the good works of Duck's Unlimited, that you should be informed of a soon to be aired radio conversation.

The purpose of the radio program: While there are many people hunting ducks and geese in Northern California, only about 10 per cent of those hunters are members of Ducks Unlimited. It is my opinion that many more would be members if they were aware that D.U. is far more than just a "Group of hunters", but that Ducks Unlimited is a Conservation Organization, founded some 35 years ago, to preserve that wildlife that is our heritage, and that not only do migratory waterfowl benefit from the monies raised by D.U. (Over Three Million Dollars last year . . .) but that over 250 other species of wildlife in addition are the direct beneficiaries of the efforts of Ducks Unlimited.

To tell the Ducks Unlimited story — I will be interviewed on Radio Station KABL at ten, Sunday March 26. The idea is that any sportsman or conservationist who has a question about DU, or the conservation efforts thereof, can phone in his question and have it answered "Live-on the air. . ."

The interviewer: Tom Winston of KABL. The interviewee: Kurk Toohey, Chairman Ducks Unlimited San Francisco Area.

Sincerely, Kurk R. Toohey.

Thirty-five mountain lions were taken during California's 1971-72 season, the Department of Fish and Game disclosed today.

With 221 tags sold to hunters, the success rate was 16 per cent, up sharply from last year's 1.7 per cent (approximately 4,750 hunters and 83 lions taken).

The Department interprets the 1971-72 season figures to mean that only serious lion hunters bought tags this year and that lion populations in the state are in good shape.

Fewer lions were taken this year than last, the report said, because the season ran only from November 15 through February 29 and for this reason no lions were taken incidental to deer hunting.

Under provisions of Assembly Bill 660, adopted during the 1971 session of the Legislature, a four year moratorium on lion hunting went into effect March 4.

Special procedures for taking depredating lions — also mandated by the legislation — are scheduled for adoption soon by the California Fish and Game Commission.

Meanwhile, the Department has undertaken an intensive study of lion populations and life history. The bill provides that a report on results of the study will be provided to the Legislature early in 1975.

Auto traffic on California's roads and highways continues to claim large numbers of deer, the DFG said today in releasing figures on road kills for calendar 1971.

According to field reports, 3,832 deer were confirmed as killed on state roads and highways during the year. This compares to 4,932 in 1970, 4,604 in 1969, 4,864 in 1968 and 8,517 in 1967 when a cooperative reporting program involving the Division of Highways and county road departments made a more complete count.

The Department of Fish and Game said that the count represents only a fraction of the actual number of deer killed each year on roads and highways in the state.

In a continuing program, the Department is working with the Division of Highways to develop and test methods that will eliminate or reduce such road kills.

Salmon fishing has been rough with high seas and winds making things almost impossible.

Striped bass trolling at the Richmond Bridge and other trolling hot spots has been good this week. Frank Spencer, the keeper at the Rod and Gun Pier, reported three anglers with nine bass to 14 pounds. All taken trolling bugeyes and Pet spoons. The Pier fishermen are also getting stripers in the eight to ten pound bracket. I finally got two bass trolling a pet spoon with a pork rind, and using two ounces of weight at the bridge this week. Those fish hit like a bomb.

Kingman Keys Giant Hopes

By JOE SARGIS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)— Charlie Fox keeps on talking about his No. 1 line up but the feeling is he'll wind up with his second best and a tough fight for the San Francisco Giants to repeat as National League West champs in 1972.

The No. 1 lineup as manager Fox envisions it has Willie Mays leading off and playing in his accustomed spot in center. Then come Tito Fuentes at second, big Dave Kingman at third, the recuperating Willie McCovey at first, Bobby Bonds, perhaps the team's best all-around player, in right, Ken Henderson in left, Dick Dietz catching, and Chris Speier at short.

"If I can play that lineup for 100 games I think we have a shot at everything," Fox says. He may be able to make it but a lot depends on Kingman, the 6-6 former University of Southern California star who broke in with a loud bang in the second half of the 1971 season.

Kingman is a first baseman by trade and he can play an acceptable outfield. Working out at third this spring he has been less than sensational and at best adequate. Chances are, though, that Kingman will open the season at third and Fox will have his fingers crossed.

If Kingman doesn't make it, then Charlie will put Al Gallagher back at the corner, send Dave to the bench, jump Bonds from fifth to third in the batting order and move Henderson and Dietz up a notch. It still would be a formidable lineup with Kingman available as the fourth outfielder and backup first baseman.

Mays figures to play in about 110 games as befitting a man who soon will be 41 and there is no telling how many games McCovey will start. He's coming back after winter knee surgery and is taking his time getting ready for the opener. McCovey says his knee is a little tender but is getting stronger all the time.

The Giants seem strong enough no matter how Fox lines them up on defense. Where they may have problems is in pitching and on the bench.

Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell are all set as the 1-2 pitchers but the scramble is on for the other two or three starting jobs. The best guess is that Don Carrithers, Jim Willoughby and John Cumberland will fill them. Of the five McDowell and Cumberland are the lefthanders.

In the bullpen Fox has righthanders Jerry Johnson and Don McMahon and leftpander John Morris for sure. The other staff spots will be filled by a flock of candidates, among them Steve Stone, Jim Barr, Ron Bryant, Lee Pitlock and Frank Reberger.

"We'll probably scramble around a little at the start until we are sure we have the best 10 men," says Fox of his pitching staff. "I'm not too concerned because I think some of our younger men are ready for steady jobs."

On the bench Fox and the Giants seem insecure. Kingman, if he isn't in the regular lineup, and Jim Ray Hart look like the right-handed pinchhitters and Jim Howarth probably will stick because he hits lefthanded.

As for backup players, Jimmy Rosario and Howarth will be available for outfield duty and Fran Healy and Russ Gibson once again will be behind Dietz. The infield spares might wind up being rookies Mike Phillips, a shortstop, and Chris Arnold, a second baseman.

It's no secret the Giants are looking around for a pitcher and an experienced utility infielder but so far all they've drawn are blanks.

"I'm not conceding anything to anyone," says Fox. "Sure, the Astros and Reds made some changes and the Dodgers got Frank Robinson, but I don't figure we are behind anyone going in. It should be a good race and there is no doubt in my mind that our division is the toughest in baseball."

Fox is right, the part about the N.L. West being tough, but his evaluation of the Giants as being even with all the others may be a bit off. Spotty pitching makes San Francisco a big question mark.

the back nine, and then announced:

"I've quit smoking for the Masters. I play better when I'm not smoking, but I also eat more. And I play better golf when I eat less so I have to watch my eating.

"Last night I ate like an absolute pig. We went out and ordered 20 pounds of crawfish and I know Billy (Casper) and I ate all except five pounds. (Casper said Nicklaus ate more than he did.)

"I also ate a quarter of Johnny Pott's steak plus a salad and I was hungry a half hour later." said Nicklaus, who is down to a svelte 185 pounds.

Nicklaus is trying to win the Masters for the fourth time, a feat accomplished only by Arnold Palmer.

Casper and Rudolph had outstanding putting rounds. Casper, playing with Nicklaus, had birdie putts of 40, 15, 14, 12, 6 and 1 1-2 feet.

Rudolph, who hasn't won in two years, made three 20-foot putts for birdies and had others of 8, 10 and 12 feet.

"I had the best putting round I've had since I've been a pro," Rudolph said. "I had about five that would've gone in a snuff can."

Henry, a former placekicker at Georgia Tech, sailed to his 66 on superb iron play. He was so accurate that five of his six birdies came on putts of from 2 to 12 feet.

Payne, who made only $390 on the tour this year and has never won in five years, birdied four of the first six holes and then sank a pair of four-foot birdie putts on Nos. 10 and 13.

Seals Lose Boldirev; Flyers Next

OAKLAND (UPI) — Smooth-skating center Ivan Boldirev of the California Golden Seals may be out for the rest of the season with an undisclosed illness.

He was ordered home after running a temperature, losing weight and complaining of not feeling well for the past three weeks. Boldirev is undergoing tests to determine the exact nature of his illness.

California plays the Flyers at Philadelphia Saturday night in the tight race among four teams for the final two playoff spots in the NHL West.

Two Marin Players On Lacrosse Team

Two Marin County players will be on the Northern California Lacrosse Association all-star team which will play the nation's No. 4 collegiate team, Air Force, in an exhibition Monday at 4 p.m. at Crocker Amazon Park in San Francisco.

The Marin Lacrosse Club players are defenseman Ned Washburn and attacker Mike Skinner. Goalie Bill Harris was scheduled to play until sustaining a fractured collarbone last week.

Marin will play the University of Washington tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the San Rafael High School practice field in a non-league game, and will meet the Oakland Lacrosse Club in a league encounter Sunday, same time and field.

Air Force compiled a 14-1 record in 1971, finishing fourth in the national championships at Hofstra University. The Falcons lost only to Maryland, the eventual runnerup.

Washington Aide Named LSU's Cage Coach

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)— Dale D. Brown, an assistant at Washington State, is the successor to fired basketball coach Press Maravich at Louisiana State.

Brown, 36, who has been coaching basketball for 15 years, signed a three-year contract. Before joining the Washington State coaching staff, Brown worked as an assistant Utah State for five years.

"We're confident coach Brown brings to this assignment the personality, character, industry and coaching ability which will build a strong basketball program at LSU," said LSU athletic director Carl Maddox.

A May 11 trial was set for the pair after their appearance Thursday in city court. They were released on their own recognizance.

Reserve Clause Bill Introduced

Yankees Get New Lease

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK — The Board of Estimate yesterday approved a new lease which would keep the New York Yankees in that city for 30 years and would commit the city to renovating 49-year-old Yankee Stadium.

The cost of renovating the stadium, which will begin after the 1973 baseball season and will be completed by the beginning of the 1976 season, was originally estimated at $24 million. Opponents of the plan say the cost has risen since the original estimate a year ago.

While the stadium is being remodeled the Yankees will play in Shea Stadium, home of the New York Mets.

Under the lease, the Yankees agreed to remain in New York for 30 years, thus ending speculation the city might lose another of its professional sports teams such as the baseball Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers in the past and the football Giants in the future.

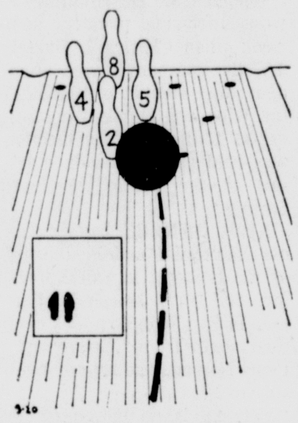
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



For the 2-4-5-8 spare shot, move to the left side of the lane. Regard the 2-5 combination as your pocket and try to come into it from the same angle as you would the 1-3. Be very cautious when you're making this shot, because the large target can be misleading. Unless it is hit just right, you are liable to leave one or more pins standing.

NIT ACTION

Maryland, Niagara Win

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tom McMillen of Maryland and Al Williams of Niagara are worlds apart in size, background and amount of publicity, but when it comes to performing under pressure they have a common bond.

Both players' ability to remain calm when the pressure builds was instrumental Thursday night in their respective schools' advancing to the finals of the 35th Annual National Invitation Tournament.

McMillen, a highly-publicized 6-foot-11 sophomore from Mansfield, Pa., stemmed a Jacksonville rally in the second half when he scored eight points during a two-minute stretch to lead Maryland to a 91-77 victory. The big sophomore led his team with 25 points and grabbed 12 rebounds but it was his long-range shooting under pressure that kept the Dolphins from gaining the upper hand.

Williams, a 5-9 guard from Hempstead, N.Y., who came into the tournament with hardly any advanced billing, demonstrated his coolness by sinking two free throws with five seconds left to give Niagara a 69-67 victory over St. John's. As a result of Williams' pressure shots Niagara, whom many expected to be knocked out in the opening round, is in the finals of the NIT for the first time in eight tries.

McMillen's heroics in the opener came after Jacksonville had chopped a nine-point deficit to three with 12:33 remaining in the game. In the next two minutes the sharpshooting forward canned three straight 18-foot jump shots and hit on two three throws to give the Terrapins a 60-49 edge with 10:16 remaining.

Tom Wasdin, coach of Jacksonville, said his team took a chance in letting McMillen have the outside shot but figured he could hurt them less their than allowing him inside.

Williams' chance to be a hero was almost nullified by his Coach Frank Layden, who was getting ready to call out when the little guard saw an opening and took off for the basket with 10 seconds left. He drove around to the right baseline and went up for a shot with five seconds left when he was hit by the Redmen's 6-9 Greg Cluess.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Something For Those With $50,000-Up In Capital Gains

If you have capital gains of $50,000 before the 50 per cent deduction or less, do not read this column.

If you have capital gains of $50,000 or more or $25,000 or more on separate returns of married persons then this column applies to you.

The alternative capital gains rate of 25 per cent is only allowed for long term capital gains under $50,000 before the 50 per cent deduction.

Over that, the alternative tax rate is 32½ per cent for 1971. After that it will be one-half of the maximum rate of 70 per cent on ordinary income, which would be 35 per cent.

There are new tax terms which have been added to the capital gains section. They are important and you should know them.

1. There is "Net Section 1201 Gain" which is simply the excess of net long term capital gain over net short term capital loss.
2. "Subsection (d) Gain" — long term capital gain which will continue to qualify for the 25 per cent rate after 1970. It includes
   (a) Capital gains received before Jan. 1, 1975, from sales or other dispositions under binding contracts entered into on or before Oct. 9, 1969.
   (b) Long term capital gains from any source which are not more than $50,000 plus (a) above.

Also, the non-taxed portion of long term capital gains (50 per cent) is a tax preference item and is added to your other tax preference items and the total of your tax preference items is taxed at a 10 per cent rate to the extent that they exceed $30,000 and your regular income tax.

Computing the tax on long term capital gains is an extremely complex business. The best suggestion that I can make for the taxpayer preparing his own return is to follow the form very carefully, being sure to fill in every portion of the form that affects you and to check and recheck your figures not only at the time that you do it but let it sit for a couple of days and then come back and recheck them again. If you follow the form slavishly it will, surprisingly enough, bring you out with the correct answer.

Market On Mixed Side At Opening

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market took on a mixed appearance with the approach of the noon hour today.

Analysts noted the initial enthusiasm, a carryover from Thursday, was slowly vanishing and suggested the lack of inspiring business news might be the reason.

A boost in the base lending rate by several major banks — First National City, Irving Trust and Chemical Bank — failed to provide strong support for the list.

Prices on the American Exchange were narrowly higher in moderate trading. Most active issues were Braniff A, off 1-2 to 18 1-8 on 313,500 shares, most of it in a block of 304,000 shares.

Braniff common was the most active issue on the Big Board thanks to a block trade of 350,000 shares, the issue was off 3-8 on a total of 384,000 shares.

Most other airlines were firmed, with gainers including UAL Inc., Pan Am, TWA, American and KLM. The pick-ups were fractional.

Easier Said Than Done Selling For Tax Loss

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold W. R. Grace (NYSE) at an average cost of $40.50. Would it be wise for me to sell the higher cost lot for the small tax loss available? I could buy back later at a lower price. I am not in a high tax bracket. —A.R.

A. My own view of this technique is that for the average investor it is more talked about than actually accomplished. Near-term action for these shares is apt to continue sluggish, reflecting the lackluster earnings performance in recent years. Over the three-to-five-year span, however, recovery should be above average. A gradual long haul restructuring of the company's operations has directed product emphasis from shipping and foreign activities to chemcial and consumer products. It is from this new base that future growth and earnings recovery will be built.

Market reappraisal of these shares could lift the low 12x multiple closer to the company's historical average of 17x. This incidentally is the P/E ratio accorded the industry as a whole. Such a revaluation would add 10 points to the current trading level. Although the yield is a generous 5.3 per cent this too is above the norm for W. R. Grace. Support from professional holders is significant; 84 institutions hold more than 3 million shares.

Q. I am a businesswoman soon to retire on a $600 monthly pension. I have $60,000 in stocks and $20,000 in savings. How should I invest the $40,000 proceeds from the sale of my home in order to secure maximum income? — A.T.

A. In order to balance your sizable stock portfolio I favor purchase of high yield quality bonds. In this category Appalachian Power 7⅝s of 2002, Charter New York 7s of 1979, Commercial Credit 7¾s of 1992, and Tampa Elec. 7¾s of 2002 are attractive. A package consisting of $10,000 + in each issue would cost $40,400, and return $2,975 annually for a current yield of 7.4 per cent.

'Leaks' Put Jury's Credibility In Doubt

"Every grand juror who, except when required by a court, wilfully discloses any evidence adduced before the grand jury, or anything which he himself or any other member of the grand jury has said, or in what manner he or any other grand juror has voted on a matter before them, is guilty of a misdemeanor." — California Penal Code, Section 924.1

"Each grand juror shall keep secret whatever he himself or any other grand juror has said, or in what manner he or any other grand juror has voted on a matter before them." — California Penal Code, Section 924.2

IT APPEARS that some members of the still-in-session 1971 Marin County Grand Jury have overlooked these two provisions of law.

The resultant furore, with its charges and counter-charges, is scarcely edifying. It scarcely promotes public confidence in the grand jury.

Last week end, a grand jury committee which investigated the Sausalito Police Department submitted a five-page report, sharply critical of that department's emphasis on the number of arrests made by individual officers and of what it called lack of leadership on the Sausalito police force.

WHEN THE REPORT was released, however, it was "leaked" to reporters for this and other newspapers that the committee had also heard testimony of a definite "quota system" for arrests, police brutality, rewriting of crime and arrest reports, police thefts of recovered burglary loot, falsification of police supply invoices, and falsification of burglary reports, among other things.

Thereupon, the grand jury refused to accept its committee report. And Milen C. Dempster, jury forman, said no testimony had been heard on the allegations "leaked" to the press.

This was followed by a claim by Gerald Hawes, who had been a member of the committee until he resigned from the grand jury last Oct. 1, that police practices he called "illegal and far more serious than the quota system" had been described to the jurors in their investigative sessions.

And William M. Bennett, a member of the state Board of Equalization, accused the jury of a "whitewash" and hinted he would demand an investigation by some other agency.

Bennett was arrested by Sausalito police last April 25 on a drunken driving charge. He was found guilty by a jury in Marin Municipal Court, but Judge Robert M. Smallman overturned the jury's verdict and set Bennett free. Bennett thereupon filed a $2 million false arrest suit against the City of Sausalito. And he appeared as a witness before the grand jury committee.

THE CHARGES against the Sausalito police force contained in the "leaked testimony" are very serious ones. The dispute within the grand jury itself over whether such testimony was or was not presented leaves the credibility of the entire investigation in doubt. The "leaking" of testimony by jurors is a misdemeanor. If alleged testimony were fabricated, that would be still more serious.

A complete investigation by the district attorney, and his own report on what happened, appears necessary.

Replace San Quentin? Sure! Except, Where's The Money?

By EARL G. WATERS

Probably sparked by a recent study of California prisons and remarks made by a touring congressional committee, there now appears to be general agreement that San Quentin should be replaced.

The same report, concurred in by some others, also recommended the abandonment of Folsom.

Based upon modern concepts of prisons, current conditions, and the physical layout of the old prisons, there is little doubt, from the standpoint of what is most desirable, these ancient institutions should be phased out. Even Governor Reagan has agreed to quit San Quentin.

Ther remains only one argument, one stumbling block, against this lofty view: Money.

THE RECENT DISCOVERY by those who made the study, and others who chimed in, about San Quentin is not remarkable. As long ago as perhaps 20 years, former State Corrections Director Richard A. McGee observed that both facilities should be replaced "if we had the money". McGee, however, was realistic. He knew the Legislature was not in any mood to provide funds for such a program. With the money he was given he steered the prison program into the 20th century by building needed new facilities more in keeping with what were then the modern concepts. But even those plants have many shortcomings in today's thinking.

State Prison Director Raymond Procunier has advised legislative committees it will cost at least $16 million to replace San Quentin and an equal amount for Folsom. It depends on what is meant by replacement.

For anyone who knows anything at all about prison costs knows $16 million wouldn't touch the replacement of either one to the capacities they have. The last figure for prison construction was something around $25,000 per inmate. And while at one time San Quentin had more than 5,000 inmates locked within its grey walls, its rated capacity is something considerably less. Folsom once housed near 3,000 but it also has a capacity substantially less.

In any event each can hold more than 200 felons without double celling. To replace these to capacity therefore would cost more than $100 million and probably nearer $200 million when it was all done. It is not likely the Legislature can be persuaded to appropriate such sums.

WHAT PROCUNIER really has been saying is that he can phase out San Quentin by transferring some to other prisons and by building 800 new cells upon an already existing prison site at a cost of $16 million. This plan would follow the pattern advocated by the Senate and carried out by McGee in other years. It would attach, as a separate prison, cell blocks which would utilize the central plant facilities such as water, power, laundry and so forth already bought and paid for.

The San Quentin project has a potential side benefit. It is situated on San Francisco Bay, close to the city. It undoubtedly could be forsaken at a profit to the state if sold to developers, so it would be far from a complete loss.

The same is not true of Folsom at this time. While prisons have often been referred to in a jocular vein as rock piles, Folsom is actually built upon a rock pile. It is near a community which derives a large part of its support from the prison payroll. If Folsom were discarded there would not be many private interests seeking the property. The economics are not favorable to its closing.

Red Cross Performs Many Services

On behalf of the Marin Chapter of the American National Red Cross may I express our deep appreciation for the support of the Independent Journal throughout the year and especially during our March campaign for members and funds.

Last year nearly 2,000 people received help from Red Cross service to Military Families. As the military gradually becomes an all-volunteer operation, there will be even more need for Red Cross counseling and assistance.

The Red Cross has expanded its first aid training because of increased demand as a result of the Federal Occupational Health and Safety Act which requires first aid trained personnel in some instances. First aid courses have been introduced in most Marin County schools and 1,500 children are expected to have been trained in basic first aid before the end of the school year.

Over $6,000 in immediate assistance and rehabilitation was given by the Red Cross to disaster stricken Marin families. need for Red Cross assistance to disaster victims continues to grow with increased population and housing.

The Marin Red Cross Chapter also cooperates with the county coordinator of emergency planning in developing a county disaster plan and constantly trains volunteers in disaster preparedness.

The Red Cross assumed an increaing role in providing water safety training. The all-volunteer handicapped swim program at Hamilton Air Force Base increased 100 per cent last year.

Spraying Fruit Trees Brings Death To Bees

Last week end a close-by neighbor sprayed their fruit trees. The result was that our driveway was covered with hundreds of dead or drying bees. A hive on our property now has little or no activity. Compound this by many thousands of people spraying and the end result will be no bees at all.

The important role that bees play in ross-pollination will have lasting effects on the future of these same fruit trees that are being sprayed.

We Goofed! Ross Has Candidates' Night

In last night's commendable editorial (March 22) on the importance of candidates' nights in the city council elections, you made one error which I would like to correct. Ross is having a candidates' night on April 5 which the I-J reported on page 24 of Tuesday's (March 21) edition. It will be co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin and the Ross Property Owners Association and held at Ross School at 8:00 p.m.

I hope this letter will clarify the contradiction that has taken place on the I-J pages.

Other Things Valued Above Human Life

Anyone who read the pathetic story about the 16-year-old Oakland girl who gave birth unassisted to a baby girl and then threw the child to its death from a second-story window must have felt deep pity for her plight and sensed the strong social forces that propel a girl to make the tragic decision to kill her newborn or unborn baby.

As a nation we seem to be highly dedicated to destroying people; the unborn child can legally be poisoned or ground to a pulp by a licensed physician, who, oddly enough, took an oath to preserve human life regardless of circumstances. Babies who are born mentally retarded or physically impaired are sometimes condemned at birth by their parents to death by slow starvation. Hospitals have sometimes allowed this practice, and doctors have urged distraught parents to violate the child's right to life. Since when do parents have the right to put their children to death? And since when do doctors have the right to prescribe death as the proper remedy for a baby's impaired mind or body?

We have cheapened human life by condoning and legalizing abortion and by allowing parents and hospitals to murder physically and mentally impaired babies. The Oakland girl has my deepest sympathy because she, like her baby, is a victim of a society that values convenience, money, and social status above human life.

Fortunatelyc there are people in the Bay Area willing to help any distressed pregnant girl. They belong to Birthright organizations in Marin and Sonoma counties, with offices in San Francisco and Oakland soon to open. Spread the word and save a baby's life.

Presidential Candidates Just Mouth Warmed-Over Mush

WASHINGTON — Where in heaven's name has the quality of presidential campaigning gone to this year?

It's vanished. It's disappeared. It has apparently been swallowed up in a vacuum of hot air and cold opportunism.

We have gone through three presidential primaries and what have we got?

The candidates are already exhausted and the voters are either weary or bored.

Most of the candidates seem to have just strength enough to avoid the issues.

Campaign oratory is aimed largely at 12-year-olds, and when a handful of hopefuls tried to have a debate it didn't make much sense and some of it didn't even make nonsense.

The Democratic Party is beginning to platoon its team. When Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles walked off the field, former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina dashed in. The field isn't narrowing one bit.

And there is the grim prospect of 20 more presidential primaries in the next four months. It's depressing. It's deplorable.

I'M NOT THE ONLY one who is complaining. Here comes Joseph A. Califano Jr., formerly a White House aide to President Johnson and currently counsel to the Democratic Party, who sees the nation being suffocated in "a political dialogue of irrelevant generalities."

"Our presidential candidates," he recently told the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton, "continue to treat the electorate like a group of vapid Orphan Annies without the political eyes to see what is happening in our nation and in our world."

This week a bipartisan group of U.S. senators, led by Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, joined Freedom House in pleading with the candidates of both parties to begin to talk seriously about the nation's crucial foreign policy dilemma instead of setting up straw men to knock down with a phrase.

They warned that governments abroad will in part judge America's reliability and steadfastness by the events of a presidential campaign year.

That's a nightmarish thought.

WHEN SENATOR MUSKIE loses out in Florida, the first thing which comes to his aides to do is to remake the TV commercials to give him a different image!

Time was when Senator Humphrey defined a coalition government with the Communists in Saigon as "putting a fox in the chicken coop," but now he indicates that whatever happens in South Vietnam will be all right with him. Is this intellectual dishonesty or political opportunism?

I am not suggesting that either party has a monopoly on avoiding the issues. We don't know what Mr. Nixon would be saying because he isn't campaigning yet.

But it wasn't always this way. I remember how Wendell Willkie in seeking the 1940 nomination lifted the Republican Party right out of its high-button shoes and planted it in the middle of the 20th century. I remember how Dewey took the nomination away from Harold Stassen in one single debate on his proposition that the Communist Party should not be outlawed. We all will remember how Adlai Stevenson "talked sense" to the American people.

Most of what we are getting in the primaries this year is stale, warmed-over intellectual mush.

Mrs. Brown Of Letcher County: She Watches The World Pass By

ICE, Ky. — Over the nearly 30 years since the war, we have watched the great rush to the cities, the exodus from the cities to the suburbs, and now the accelerating trend from the cities and suburbs back to the country. But Siller Brown neither took part in all that shuffling around nor watched it at very close range. She lives here on the bank of Little Cowan Creek where she lived back then, and from this point she may have a better perspective on what counts in life than anybody I have talked to lately.

Mrs. Brown is a beautiful lady, with bright eyes, naturally pink cheeks and clear features. I didn't ask her how old she is, but her husband died four years ago at 73, so you can estimate her age from that. She has lived here all her days in the Cumberland Mountains, within walking distance of Ice.

She has taken a look at city living, but never been tempted to stay. During the war, she went through Washington to Baltimore to visit a son working in the shipyards. She also has been up to Fairborn, Ohio, to spend Christmas with her daughter.
her daughter.

At Fairborn she went shopping all over town, and played bingo two evenings, which she says was a lot of fun. But she found that "I'd much rather be here in the mountains where the birds sing and the chickens crow for daylight." She summed up her reservations about urban living by saying she wouldn't want to be where the only thing you can see out your window is into somebody else's window.

MRS. BROWN SEES and finds joy in many things other people pass by without noticing. She has no car, and used to have a television but doesn't any more. She gets to church and down the road to Whitesburg occasionally by riding with a neighbor. But mainly she stays in touch with the world by keeping her eyes and ears open.

From the birds and insects and other signs she predicts what the weather will be, and when to plant which crop. From things she remembers from her father, her grandfther and her Uncle Dave, who was an herb doctor, she puts together valuable health advice for her neighbors. And being a devoted Old Regular Baptist, she often offers them spiritual advice, too.

Her forecasts, observations and news bulletins about people in her part of Letcher County are published most weeks in the Mountain Eagle. Like most county weekly correspondents, she is paid by the column inch. This encourages her to mix philosophy richly with her reporting, and in her case it's a good thing.

AS SPRING APPROACHED last week she remarked on the green frogs that were becoming active in the creek. "It's a beautiful sound to hear them croak and call to each other in their own language that we cannot understand," she wrote. She also observed that "we have most of our spring birds here, but I haven't saw or heard no pewee yet, and I hope they don't come till after the 20th of the month. I hate to see them come and then go back. If they do, we have more cold weather."

She urges her readers to get out into the spring sunshine. "We soon can get a mess of wild greens, and the poke will soon be up, and that's really a spring tonic. A good mess of poke salad cooked on a big piece of meat from the smokehouse is delicious. We are not short on good things to eat. What we don't have stored up, we can go out and pick some wild greens."

And she never misses a chance to put in a good word for the Lord: "Today has been a beautiful day, dry and warm. A wonderful church-going day. Today was Oven Fork church time. They had a wonderful service and a good crowd. To see a good crowd at church any more looks like a flower garden to me, everybody looks so good."

SOMETIMES THE NEWS she gathers by telephone seems all bad. "It's hard to write a column any more, there's so many of our friends passing away, both young and old, but we are traveling close behind. We, too, need our Lord to hold our hands and steady our steps while we cross over," she wrote last week. She also mused in print, "There's no news of Milburn Collins lately. I would like to hear from him."

But those down days obviously are when it's raining or in deep midwinter. Most of the time she is eagerly reporting the marriage of someone like J. B. Eversole, who at the age of 94 "just did not want to live by himself, so he got himself a lovely wife, Ruby Caudill." Or she is scorching all within her circulation area for daring to throw tin cans in the creeks, or urging her neighbors to withhold their taxes until the county builds a new road up Kingdom Come, or trying to shame some men into going out and renovating their old family cemeteries.

When she is not phoning, church-going and penning her column on ruled note paper, she is likely to be sitting by her coal grate fire, fondly shushing her great-grandson while telling stories about other days, and insisting that a visitor have a piece of her fruitcake and a glass of the sweet water from her well — and altogether making that visitor wonder what aberrations in man ever drove him to cluster together in that unnatural place called a city.

Can City Law Preserve Trees On Someone's Private Property?

The Novato city government, which has never been known as one afraid to tackle problems, has taken on one which might make them skate on thin ice.

In the past the city has never flinched when it came to trying for lower fire taxes in the incorporated area, trying to get a reduction in city taxes for services duplicated by the county and city with the residents taxed for both.

Now the city planning commission has proposed a "heritage tree ordinance." This ordinance has the high ideal of saving big old trees on private property.

Many of these old trees have been cut down to make way for developments. Then there are many that are on private property with the house constructed under them.

THIS PROPOSED city ordinance raises a few legal problems.

First, does the city have the right to tell someone what he can and cannot do on his own property? There are many who said that the proposed ordinance is an invasion of property rights.

What if a person has a house which is under a giant oak tree? He finds that the inside of it is rotten, as is the case with many old oak trees. He wants to remove it as it endangers his house.

Perhaps the city officials think that the tree should be saved as a landmark in the city, and will not give him a permit to cut it.

What if a winter windstorm blows a branch of the big tree down onto the house? Who is responsible for the damage? The owner knew the tree was unsafe, but the city officials would not let him cut it down. Is the city then responsible for forcing a dangerous situation on the property owner?

The city court should take some very careful looks at the legal aspects of the proposed ordinance before they adopt it.

THAT TIME OF YEAR is here again. Weekenders going north to the Russian River resorts or to Mendocino County pile up behind the traffic lights on Highway 101 in Novato.

Going north to Petaluma Sunday we saw the double line of southbound cars stopped from Grant Avenue north to Gnoss Field and traffic slowing down almost to the Sonoma County Line.

Not only are the residents of Novato anxiously awaiting the decision on the construction of the freeway bypass. So also are all those motorists who must use Highway 101 over the weekend.

Novato is the only bottleneck with traffic lights from the Golden Gate Bridge to Willits far to the north. A group of citizens has a lawsuit to stop the bypass, and is awaiting the judge's decision on whether they can stop it or not.

If they are unsuccessful and the work proceeds as scheduled, it will still be two to three years before the bypass is completed and motorists can go through Novato with the same ease that they do through other cities on the route north.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Two Million To Buy Open Space —But Whose Money Is It?

Now read this: I have a hunch that some of what follows will wonder a large part of the I-J readers more than just a little bit. Once more it seems that perhaps the best way will be to present quotes from news stories.

Early in January of '71, I-J reporter George Nevin wrote: "'Preserving open space in Marin County soon may require telling a property owner he can't build on his land,' a conservationist attorney told a symposium in Mill Valley."

The reporter went on to say that Douglas B. Ferguson, who sometimes serves as a legal adviser to Nature Conservancy, said this radical approach may be needed to acquire undeveloped ridge land, although other tools are available as well.

THE TIME MAY BE coming, he said, when "we have to rethink our concept of private ownership and realize that the public good may best be served by telling a property owner he can't build on his land —to preserve our last remaining open space."

He urged the audience to attend city and county budget sessions and "play the truth game —tell them we want the money in the budget for these things. It's the only way we'll get them." I commented, "I wonder how many of those present were living up in the hills and enjoying the open space view, which they had all to themselves?' '

At last Tuesday's meeting of the supervisors, it was reported that about 150 people were present regarding the West Marin zoning and that most of them seemed in favor of the action taken. During the session a countywide park district was voted by the board of supervisors and on a 4-1 vote, with Supervisor Bud Baar voting "no," $1,900 toward a kitty being made up by Mill Valley, Larkspur and Corte Madera, together with private contributions. This money was to be used to hire a planning consultant (!). It will be interesting to see if the man who finished a similar survey down San Mateo way and who was one of the panel at the meeting reported by Nevin last year, will get the brass ring on the merry-go-round.

HAROLD E. GREGG, president of the Conservation League, asking for the money to hire the planner, said the property was worth around $1,836,500. Now here is where this whole business wonders people.

The population of the county is over 200,000. There were about 150 proponents at the meeting. Whose money is going to be used to make up that almost two million dollars? Whose do you think? Who is going to make up the lost taxes when the property is taken off the tax roll?

If these proponents of all this immediate acquisition really believe that they represent the thinking of the rest of the folks in the county, they should not hesitate to put it on the ballot at the November election, together with a frank statement as to the entire cost of the proposition.

It was good to see that Supervisors John McInnis and Bud Baar tried to have the zoning of the lands in West Marin be given more study and that they voted their convictions. (No.)

ONE OF THE WEAKNESSES of this board is that the three supervisors, Arrigoni, Wornum and Baptiste spend their days out of Marin, in San Francisco, and as a result are pretty well out of touch with things here and must depend on hearsay. This county is entitled to better representation. An example: Wornum was to request assistance from the Golden Gate Bridge Board to set up some bus stations. He hadn't studied his lines and asked for a few hundred dollars when several thousand was needed. He got the horse laugh from his colleagues on that board.

You know I have been urging for years that a parks and recreation district be voted on by the folks in the county. So when the draft is submitted by the county counsel, I hope to have a chance to discuss it with you.

By the way, did you have any doubt about the evaluation of the administrator? It is the talk around the county that nepotism is the game, that there are close social ties. And that, my friends, is where a big mistake is being made.

Hub Challengers Tell Their Views

By DAVID DIETZ

The focus was on flood control, housing and taxes, but such matters as marijuana and pornography arose as well yesterday as a crowded field of candidates for the San Anselmo City Council vied for votes on a Marin radio program.

Mainly, however, it was the six challengers in the April 11 election calling for the ouster of the two incumbents, Mayor Kenneth A. Anderson and James F. Reed, on grounds of indifference to the public's wishes.

Anderson and Reed, criticized at one point as "phony liberals," hailed the achievements of the past four years, notably the Hub remodeling project, acquisition of Robson-Harrington Park and the fights against an East-West freeway through the town and plans to extend the concrete flood control ditch up Corte Madera Creek into the community.

The candidates, appearing on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" program, spent much of the time on the flood control issue. All who spoke on the matter applauded rejection of the concrete channel, but there was disagreement over alternate means of flood control.

Jack Burr II, a research scientist-teacher, said he was preparing plans for a reservoir-type holding system for wet weather runoff, while Reed suggested the idea of a bypass project.

A third candidate, Dr. Martin G. Blinder, a physician, suggested various flood control measures, including widening and straightening out the creek at strategic points. Candidate Sarah Nome, a 47-year resident of the city, saw the need for a downstream "run-off area" that would collect surging waters and at the same time hold back the high tide.

Reed was at variance with Pieter Toal, engineer-administrator for a consulting firm, and Richard Alan Raznikov, a 25-year-old law student, on one of the campaign's most prevalent issues — whether to permit nonconforming second dwellings on single-family lots.

While concerned with what he described as the humanitarian question, Reed believed that legalizing such units would "completely open the door to far more of them in future."

Toal and Raznikov supported the extra units, provided each was considered on individual merits and health and safety provisions were met. Toal said he was concerned with the effect of a ban on aged persons in town, many of whom occupy the second units.

Beyond the extra dwelling issue, Raznikov renewed his proposal for a moratorium on apartment construction, identifying community growth as the campaign's central issue. He also called for a community drug and alcohol abuse program.

Mrs. Nome and candidate Judy Emis, secretary of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin, directed most of their remarks to city spending. Mrs. Emis called for holding the line on "frills, visionary spending and overstaffing," while Mrs. Nome noted that the city budget had doubled in five years.

Mrs. Nome said the city needed budget advice from local businessmen, and urged rejection of "pie-in-the-sky innovators." She added, "courts all have their jesters."

All the candidates took a stand on two issues raised by program listeners — the preliminary countywide master plan and the legalization of marijuana. The eight generally supported the master plan, although Mrs. Nome and Mrs. Emis expressed concern over proposed sole traffic access to West Marin through San Anselmo or the cost of preserving open space.

Responses to the marijuana question ranged from support for legalization expressed by Toal and Raznikov to views by Mrs. Emis and Mrs. Nome that the narcotic should remain illegal.

A listener also brought pornography into the discussion, asking Blinder whether he would support a movie house featuring racy films in the town. Blinder said he wouldn't.

Blinder received most of the queries phoned in by listeners. At one point, the other candidates responded with grins and giggles when Mrs. Nome identified one of the callers probing Blinder's stand on an issue as the candidate's wife.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

State Park Reopens Popular Picnic Area

The main picnic area at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Lagunitas has been reopened after a brief closure for erosion control and restoration work.

The picnic area was closed while workmen shored up soil around redwood trees and built a rail fence along the bank of Paper Mill Creek.

Logging Bill Moves Along In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A logging bill which the Sierra Club opposed on the grounds it would "perpetuate industry self-regulation" was unanimously approved yesterday by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The measure by Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, was sent to the Finance Committee on a voice vote after two committee members expressed fears there would be no regulation of the timber industry this year if the bill were not passed.

Marler proposed the bill in response to an appellate court decision which, in effect, left California without any regulation of forest practices on private lands.

The court invalidated rules established by district forest practices committees, declaring that the committees had no authority to regulate logging.

John Zierold of the Sierra Club told the Senate committee the bill's "only real effect is to continue under new management a system of industry selfregulation" which has been declared unconstitutional.

He also opposed giving the state Board of Forestry power to regulate logging. Zierold said its "membership is without the scientific qualifications necessary to make policy decisions affecting watershed resources in which the public has an indisputable interest."

Marler declared that 12 forest counties have told him they want the state to enact regulations although they have the power to do so themselves.

Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, said that county supervisors in his mountain district "haven't got the guts" to enforce the kind of regulations the conservationist Sierra Club desires.

Of the 60 supervisors in his area Teale said, "I don't think there are 10 who would bite the bullet and enact regulations."

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, said he believes county governments were "incapable" of regulating logging.

Marler's bill would give the Board of Forestry power to regulate logging until Dec. 1, 1973. He said he expected the board to adopt the regulations which were developed by the industry-dominated district committees.

Span Panel Favors Priority List For Capital Spending

Construction of a new southbound roadway off the Golden Gate Bridge should be delayed another year to fiscal 1973-74, a committee of bridge district directors agreed yesterday.

Completion of the $3.7 million roadway thus would not be until the following fiscal year. Work originally was to have begun this year on the project, but it was postponed because heavy financial commitments to the district's bus and ferry system.

The issue came before the building and operating committee in a priority list of future projects drafted by district engineer Robert E. Shields. The committee endorsed 15 projects totaling $11,369,000, most of them for improvements and repairs to the span and adjacent facilities.

Stricken from the list were a $150,000 appropriation for a new public restaurant and $250,000 for a water line across the span.

No decision was made on whether to continue preliminary testing of a proposed suicide barrier to cost $1.5 million to $4 million.

The first priority projects over the next four fiscal years included $3,255,000 to replace suspender ropes, $160,000 to engineer needed span repairs, $2,552,000 to have the repairs done, $300,000 to replace obsolete toll equipment, $50,000 to continue development of an automatic vehicle identification system that someday may replace most cash tolls, $40,000 to resurface the Sausalito Lateral and construct a left turn lane on the lateral, and $30,000 for an electric cable on the bridge.

Second priority projects are the $3.7 million roadway, $300,000 for a new maintenance area, $200,000 for an improved television system to observe the bridge and approaches, $80,000 to develop automatic traffic lane dividers, and $150,000 to improve visibility by lowering the concrete railing on the inside curve at the north end of the bridge.

Third priority projects were $50,000 to light the bridge towers and $2,000 to pave the upper anchorage road below the north anchorage. Several directors said the tower lighting would be "a luxury."

The proposed southbound roadway would allow full use of the toll plaza. The one-way toll collection system would be reversed to collect from northbound drivers.

The committee also recommended to the board of directors a $3,900 study of office space at the toll plaza and a $22,320 annual lease with Revenue Control Systems to test 700 automatic vehicle identification devices.

Competition In Banking Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Specialized institutions will broaden their powers to compete more vigorously with commercial banks in the near future, an American Bankers Association marketing conference was told.

Harry P. Guenther, executive vice president of the Conference of State Bank Supervisors, issued the warning Wednesday at the bankers association meeting.

A "new environment" is appearing for banks, Guenther said, and as a result bankers must be aware that people expect different things from banks both in services and traditional business methods.

Referee Funding

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A $525,000 supplemental appropriation for the state to hire additional hearing referees for welfare recipients facing a cut off or reduction in benefits has been approved by the Senate committee.
